PEACE IS OBJECT.

National Congress to Meet Today.

New York and Boston Hold Giant Celebrations in Honor of Event.

Thousands Listen to Songs and Sermons Advocating End of the War.

Delegates from All Nations Will Attend Three-Day Conference.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Draped in white and gold and festooned with the flags of every nation, Carnegie Hall tonight rang with the songs and sermons of universal peace. It was the choral service introductory to the first national arbitration and peace congress ever held in this country, and which is to continue until next Wednesday night.

Every seat in the hall was occupied and many who had tickets of admission were turned away early in the evening. As an indication of the general interest in the peace movement, it was said today that applications for seats for every session have far outnumbered the seating capacity of the building. Requests have been received from almost every city and town in the country.

Andrew Carnegie, president, of the congress, was not present at the opening of the exercises, having been detained in Pittsburgh. At 9 o'clock he came in accompanied by several French and German delegates.

In the addresses, the keynote was arbitration and conciliation, rather than any argument for disarmament or actual cessation of war. The speakers talked of progressive steps toward peace, rather than of actual consummation of a world of peace.

Rabbi Emil G. Hirsch, D. D., Sinai Congregation, Chicago, was introduced by Bishop Potter as one who had done much toward arousing interest in the peace movement in America. During his address he said:

"A wise man has said, 'Speak softly and carry a big stick,' but is not the 'big stick' always a provocation for trouble? The carrying of pistols in the hip pocket has been the cause of many murders, and is not the 'big stick' very like the pistol in one's pocket? If there were no wars," he said, "there would be very little starvation and suffering."

PLOWMAN IS POWER.

Speaking on "The Advent of the Plow," he said:

"Intensify the productive methods which coax from earth the blessings stored therein, and hunger's dominion correspondingly shrinks. None need starve if all work together to prevent famine's capricious and iniquitous intrusion.

"We hail the advent of the plow. It is the sign of triumphant democracy. With coöperation as with the polar star, friction will be minimized. If the courts are competent to maintain the social equilibrium between different contestants and litigants in one country shall we despair of international tribunals' efficiency in making for equilibrium among the nations? If all nations were united would one single nation dare reject the decree?

"Let nations dream of peace, and peace will be sure of consummation. The hands that guide the plow carry credentials of nobility and strength less doubtful than do the fingers which pull the trigger."

"Every soldier," said Bishop Potter, "represents a non producer. He must be fed and clothed and cared for out of the nation's pockets, and is not this fact alone sufficient to make us feel the uselessness and the unfairness of war?"

Archbishop John M. Farley was on the programme for an address on "Universal Peace," but had been detained at a meeting of archbishops in Washington, and his address was read by Mgr. Lavalle. In his address he said:

"War is so great an evil that one of the world's greatest generals described it with laconic eloquence as the most perfect state of human misery. There is wanting to it no horror, moral or material."

In concluding, Bishop Potter said:

"Let us thank God for The Hague Congress, and that an American has furnished the building in which it is to meet, and may hasten the triumph of universal peace."

Archbishop Farley, writing on "Universal Peace," said he was not prepared to say that war could ever be removed from society, but that much might be done to mitigate its horrors and lessen its frequency. Efforts for universal peace, he declared, would accomplish only imperfect results until the moral power and authority of organized religion were openly recognized.

Afternoon and evening sessions will be held tomorrow in Carnegie Hall. At the morning session Mr. Carnegie will preside, and an address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor McClellan. A letter from President Roosevelt will be read and addresses will be made by Gov. Hughes, Secretary of State Elihu Root and Mr. Carnegie.

The 1500 delegates who will attend this Congress include representatives of the United States to The Hague conference, Federal and State judges, United States Senators and Representatives, Governors and members of State Legislatures, mayors of many large cities, representatives of leading religious, patriotic and philanthropic organizations, editors, business men and labor leaders.

DENOUNCES SPANISH WAR.

BOSTON PEACE MEETING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BOSTON, April 14.—Over 5000 people assembled in the Christian Science Church tonight, 'to swell Boston's voice," as one speeker said, "in recognition and support of the National Peace and Arbitration Congress," which begins tomorrow. Former Secretary of the Navy John D. Long and William Lloyd Garrison made addresses, pleading for universal peace.

William Lloyd Garrison did not spare the churches in his criticism, and he said the bearers of the name of Christians were ever ready to uphold and justify legalized murder when their own country was involved.

Mr. Garrison denounced the war with Spain, and said:

"This guilty nation and our kindred guilty across the Atlantic are ripe for repentance, which should manifest itself in acts."

Former Gov. Bates referred in his speech to ex-Secretary Long as the bravest man that ever issued orders to a fleet of war vessels, and to Mr. Garrison as the son of the man who did more to bring on the civil war than any one else in the country, and who at the end was still shouting that he was not willing to retract. He declared universal peace is no longer a dream.

FINDS HIS WIFE IN MADHOUSE.

REUNION AFTER TEN YEARS RESTORES HER REASON.

Samuel Gordon, an Iowa Farmer, Who Believed His Wife Had Deserted Him Years Ago, at Last Finds Her in a Colorado Hospital and Takes Her Home.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Tomorrow Samuel Gorden, a young farmer of Woodbury county will arrive at his home near Sioux City, bringing from a Colorado asylum the wife who vanished from sight ten years ago, and for whom he has been making diligent search for the past seven years.

For three years Gorden believed that his wife was guilty of wilful desertion. Suddenly obtaining possession of a clew which indicated that she had been the victim of a mental breakdown, he began the long and weary search. Two weeks ago Gorden learned that his wife was in a hospital for the insane at Denver.

Starting at once for the West he arrived in Denver Thursday and was immediately taken to his wife's apartments. Within five minutes after husband and wife met the clouds seemed to completely lift from the woman's mind. Gorden telegraphed his joyful news to Iowa friends who are preparing to give the reunited couple a quiet but affectionate greeting tomorrow afternoon.

STILL PROBING GRAFT.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The grand jury will meet again Tuesday afternoon and Heney will make an effort to finish up the cases of the Home Telephone and the Pacific States Telephone companies. A. B. Cass, J. S. Torrance, P. Adams and the other Los Angeles Home Telephone promoters who are said to be in danger of indictment, will probably have true bills returned against them this week. With the next batch of indictments will be true bills against Schmitz and Ruef for bribery and accepting bribes in connection with the granting of the temporary permits for lines given to the United States Railroads shortly after the April disaster. It is on this case that the prosecution relies for the conviction of President Calhoun, Thornwell, Mullally and Tirey L. Ford. The evidence is said to be of such a character that Schmitz and Ruef cannot escape indictment.

COLONIAL PREMIERS ARRIVE.

LONDON, April 14.—Premiers of almost all the British colonies have arrived in London to attend the Fourth Colonial Conference, which will assemble April 15. Among the chief questions to be discussed are a project providing for a permanent council, preferential trade between the colonies and Great Britain, immigration and imperial defense schemes.

TAINTED CASH MENACES LIFE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TRENTON (N. J.) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] As the result of handling tainted money, former Assemblyman Harry D. Leavitt of this city is seriously ill at his home suffering with blood poisoning.

Leavitt is paying teller and assistant cashier at the Mechanics' Bank. It has been necessary for him to handle a large number of bank notes daily. In many cases the bank notes were unclean.

About a month ago Leavitt cut a small gash in his right hand with his penknife. He paid little attention to the wound, and continued his work at the bank. A few days later the hand became swollen. A physician was consulted and he found the wound to be infected. Blood poisoning later developed and now Leavitt's recovery is doubtful.

ECKELS IS DEAD.

Former Comptroller Passes Away.

Noted Ex-Treasury Official Succumbs to Attack of Heart Disease.

Grim Reaper Claims Toll on the Eve of a Happy Home Party.

His Wife and Daughter in Europe Hasten Home at the Sad News.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, April 14.—James H. Eckels, president of the Commercial National Bank of this city, and formerly Comptroller of the Currency, died here today of heart disease. Mr. Eckels died while asleep in his bed.

The fact that he was dead was discovered by the butler, who entered Mr. Eckels's room, after hearing a telephone bell within ring continuously without receiving an answer. Other members of the family were then summoned. Dr. Frank S. Churchill gave it as his opinion that Mr. Eckels had been dead for some hours.

Mrs. Eckels and her daughter, Phoebe, 18 years of age, are in Paris, where the latter is attending a finishing school for girls. They have been abroad since last fall, and planned to return to Chicago within a few weeks. They were at once communicated with by cable. It is understood they will sail from France for New York tomorrow.

The death of Mr. Eckels came on the eve of a breakfast party, which he had planned for a number of his friends and relatives. Judge K. M. Landis of the Federal District Court, Mrs. Landis, Judge and Mrs. E. H. Gary of New York, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Eckels, brother and sister-in-law of the deceased, and others were to have been his guests.

James A. Eckels of Princeton, father of James H. Eckels, died two months ago. On the morning of the death of the elder Eckels, the son was a host of former President Cleveland. The former President and Mr. Eckels were at breakfast when news of the father's death was received at the Eckels residence. Mr. Eckels was kept in ignorance of the fact for several hours, until Mr. Cleveland had left the city.

Mr. Eckels, during agitation of the currency question, became prominent as an advocate of the gold standard. Always a Democrat, he became affiliated in 1896 with the Gold Standard Democrats. He retained the office of Comptroller of the Currency until the end of President Cleveland's term in 1897, when he became president of the Commercial National Bank of this city.

Mr. Eckels leaves only four near relatives. They are his wife and daughter, his brother, George M. Eckels, an attorney of this city, and a sister, Mrs. James E. Palmer of Princeton, Ill.

One of the first public men to take an active interest in the reclamation of the arid lands of the West was Hon. James Herron Eckels. As treasurer of the National Irrigation Association and in many other ways, he assisted this great cause. Few men of his age had been so long in positions of great responsibility as Mr. Eckels. As a public servant and as a business man he won general esteem and confidence.

It developed during the day that a person who was trying to communicate with Mr. Eckels over the telephone, the ringing of which led to the discovery of the death, was George M. Eckels, a brother. Half an hour later he was called to his own telephone and notified of his brother's death.

TO HOLD INQUEST.

A post-mortem examination was held and a statement issued giving the causes of death as organic heart trouble. A formal Coroner's inquest will be held tomorrow morning.

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon from the Fourth Presbyterian Church. Rev. William Nottman will conduct the services. Interment will not take place at once, it having been decided to place the body in a vault until the return of Mrs. Eckels and daughter, when a private funeral will be held.

Mr. Eckels was a stockholder and was prominent in the management of several concerns, among them being the Hewitt Manufacturing Company and the Union Traction Company, of which he was vice-president; the Featherstone Foundry and Machine Company, the Chicago Real Estate Trustees' Association, the Ailis Chalmers Company, the America.. and British Securities Company, the Brokers Trust Company of New York and the First National Bank of Baltimore. He was a member of the Union League, the Merchants and the Commercial Clubs of Chicago, and of various clubs in the East. Mr. Eckels was one of the receivers of the Chicago Union Traction Company appointed by Federal Judge Grosscup several years ago.

Mr. Eckels was born at Princeton, Ill., November 22, 1858, and most of his life had been spent in Illinois. He received an early education in the schools of his native city, later taking up the study of law at Albany, N. Y., graduating from the Albany Law School in 1880. He practiced law at Ottawa, Ill., until appointed by President Cleveland to the post of Comptroller of the Currency in 1893.

DEATH SHOCKS HIM.

CLEVELAND DEEPLY TOUCHED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PRINCETON (N. J.) April 14.—Former President Cleveland was deeply touched when he learned of the death of Mr. Eckels. He said:

"I was closely related to Mr. Eckels and his death comes to me with a peculiar shock. In important public work I learned to know him as intelligent and industrious. His personal friendship I learned to know his rare and attractive qualities of heart. This incident gave personal touch with my deceased friend, and caused me to mourn his death as a great personal sorrow.

"Mr. Eckels illustrated the traits that make the best citizenship. Deeply interested in every question connected with the public welfare, he studied them with soberness to the end that he might increase his usefulness. He was a public spirited man who saw duty all about him and whose influence was impressed on all his surroundings for good.

"There was nothing frivolous about Mr. Eckels. In every relation of life, as a citizen, as a business man and as a friend, he was earnest and wholehearted. Neither the immediate community in which he dwelt nor the country at large can well afford to lose a man like James H. Eckels."

HON. JAMES H. ECKELS.

MRS. THAW WAS SURE OF SON'S ACQUITTAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Positive that Harry K. Thaw would be acquitted of murdering Stanford White, an agent of the family last week contracted for four automobiles for use in a tour of France and Italy this summer. The contracts were let for the four cars during the automobile show, which closed at Duquesne Garden last night.

A representative of Mrs. William Thaw placed with the agent of a noted French manufacturer an order for three cars of the large, touring type. The machines were to be delivered to the purchaser in Paris within thirty days.

At the same time these purchases were made, an agent of William Thaw, third, who is now on a hunting trip in New Mexico, ordered another car, similar to those purchased by his grandmother. William expected to join the party, which would have included himself, Mrs. William Thaw, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thaw, Josiah Copley Thaw, and possibly the Countess of Yarmouth. From a very reliable source, it is learned today that when Harry Thaw is again placed on trial one of his leading lawyers will probably be John Marron, the foremost criminal lawyer in this part of the country.

Many friends of Mrs. William Thaw, including several members of the bar, and also Roger O'Mara, have suggested to Mrs. Thaw that Marron would be a most valuable lawyer for the defense.

INTIMATES SCANDAL.

PRINTS SIGNIFICANT TALE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Great interest is being manifested here in a statement printed today by the Times under a New York date, intimating that an even worse scandal than that involved in the matter of trying Harry Thaw for the killing of Stanford White may develop.

After quoting the remarks of several American newspapers on the scandalous manner of conducting the trial, the article says:

"There is cause to believe that a worse scandal in connection with the case may develop, but on this subject nothing further can be said."

The general opinion is that this remark refers to the lunacy commission which pronounced Thaw sane. There is great curiosity to know just what the intimated scandal might be.

The London Daily News declares the trial is proof that an undisciplined press and unscrupulous wealth may combine to defeat justice, as they combine to defeat representative government.

ENRAGED BULL GORES MATADOR.

FAVORITE OF THE MEXICANS PROBABLY FATALLY HURT.

After Having Vaulted Three Animals as They Entered the Ring, Rasulio Hernandez Is Tossed and Torn by the Fourth—Attendants Save Him from Instant Death.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the presence of 2000 people in the large Plaza de Toros, in Juarez, Mex., across the Rio Grande from this city, Rasulio Hernandez, (Cuco) favorite with the populace, was frightfully gored today by an infuriated bull and tossed to the side of the bull ring.

Only the prompt arrival of attendants at the side of the wounded matador saved his life, for the bull rushed with renewed fury on his victim when the attendants brought their flaming capes into play and led him in a rush to the other side of the ring. It is stated by surgeons that Cuco may die during the night on account of loss of blood.

The horn of the big beast penetrated the thigh of the daring matador to a depth of seven inches, taking an upward lunge along the long femur bone. The lower part of his clothes were saturated with blood and it was not until bandages were applied above and below the wound that the flow was checked.

Cuco had been advertised to vault each of the bulls, four in number, as they entered the ring today. This he did and received an ovation from the spectators each time.

It was after Silverio Chico, the matador of the afternoon, had dispatched three of the beasts that the populace called on Cuco for the fourth. Cuco responded and it was while making the first thrust that the bull rushed on him.

He was lifted from his feet and tossed to the side of the ring. The maddened beast then made a second rush on his victim when the attendants succeeded in distracting his attention. The wounded man was carried limp from the ring and surgeons summoned. Cuco is well known on the Pacific Coast, where he has appeared with Impresario Felix Robert of the Juares ring as a banderillerio.

FOLLOWS MAMMA'S EXAMPLE.

Mother Advises "Do as I Do" so When Parents Objected to Suitor She Elopes.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Edmund Putnam, until a few days ago Miss Ethel Wilson, daughter of Henry R. Wilson, whose secret marriage came to light today, had the best reason in the world for eloping with the man of her choice, when her parents objected to their marriage.

She was only obeying her mother, who had often told her always to do exactly as she did. When a girl, Mrs. Putnam's mother herself ran away to wed, and the young bride thinks that is a good enough excuse for her act, for wasn't she following in mother's footsteps?

Probably the young couple would have been able to keep their secret as long as they wished if they had not lost the marriage certificate the preacher gave them, within an hour after leaving the Rev. Henry March Warren's home.

Edmund Putnam, who is the son of Irving Putnam of G. P. Putnam's Sons, is 24 years old, and lived with his father.

SUTTON MUST LEAVE FRANCE.

PARIS, April 14.—The police have issued an expulsion order under the prevention of gambling law against George Sutton, the American billiard player, who recently ran a billiard school here. A delay in expulsion of forty-eight hours has been granted him.

MILLIONS IN GAME.

Many Made Rich by Lottery.

Owners of Honduras Swindle Got Half-Million Dollars Every Month.

Backers of Project Members of the Nation's Oldest Families.

Some Interesting Sidelights on the Careers of Chief Promoters.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MOBILE (Ala.) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Half a million a month added to the bank accounts of four men. Such has for years been the astonishing fruit of the Honduras Lottery Company's operations, according to the Federal officials who have at last secured the indictment and arrest of the owners and managers of the huge money-making device.

The four men who own the Honduras Lottery Company, according to these Federal officials, are Alfred Hennen Morris, David Hennen Morris, Albert Baldwin, Sr., and Frank T. Howard, bankers and capitalists, against whom indictments have been returned charging them with conspiring to violate the anti-lottery law.

Alfred Hennen Morris and David Hennen Morris, who married one of the Vanderbilt, are sons of the late John A. Morris, whose father was the "lottery king" of Delaware. On their mother's side they are grandsons of Alfred Hennen, one of the most illustrious jurists of Louisiana and antebellum Chief Justice of the State.

It was through the late Charles T. Howard, father of Frank T. Howard, that the elder Mr. Morris and his associates, among them A. Baldwin, Sr., emerged from a reconstruction Legislature, the charter of the Louisiana Lottery Company for a period of twenty-five years. The elder Howard piloted the measure before the Legislature and was the first president of the company, holding the office until his death, when he was succeeded by Paul Conrad, who remained president until the death by limitation of the Louisiana Lottery Company.

Mr. Morris founded West Chester Park, the famous racing track, and also the Morris Stables, which in recent years have furnished the colors for some notable blooded animals. As a close business associate of Mr. Morris, A. Baldwin made a fortune as a stockholder in the lottery company in addition to which he was founder and head of the present A. Baldwin & Co., limited, hardware, and president of the New Orleans National Bank.

Frank T. Howard has been receiver of the New Orleans Water Works Company since it went into the hands of a Federal receiver. Mr. Howard has always made his home in New Orleans and occupies a mansion adjoining the City Hall, and fronting La Fayette Square, which in recent years has been kept beautifully by his generosity. He and his sister and brother built the Howard memorial to their father.

In its halcyon days, the Louisiana Lottery Company's possible receipts were $4,000,000 a month, and the prizes were about 60 per cent. thereof; but, it is said, unsold tickets were always put in the wheel and often drew the prizes, the largest of which was $300,000. One-quarter of the capital prize was won in 1890 by one of the anti-lottery leaders, who accepted a $5 ticket from a vender in partial payment of a debt that the anti-leader could not otherwise collect.

This winning played a big part in the lottery argument that the antis "were insincere, and were using reform as a lever to lift themselves into power."

The principal stockholders of the lottery rapidly amassed fortunes, and when John A. Morris died, about 1894, his wealth was estimated by his friends as between $13,000,000 and $20,000,000.

TEST ARAB STALLION.

Lieut. McCabe Will Cover More Than Six Thousand Miles and Keep Careful Records.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Lieut. E. Warner McCabe of the Sixth Cavalry, who has been selected by Gen. Bell to ride from Silverton, Or., across the continent on an Arab stallion, has asked that Quartermaster Sergeant Samuel Peterson, Troop K, Sixth Cavalry, be detailed as his orderly to accompany him on the long trip.

He has also indicated that he will lay his route along the Oregon Short Line and the Union Pacific from Silverton to Umatilla, thence to Boise, Fort D. I. Russell, Wyo.; Omaha, Neb.; Fort Des Moines, Iowa; Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis; Columbus Barracks, O.; Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, Pa., to New York City.

Gen. Bell said today that he thought the trip, which will embrace more than 3000 miles, might be made in 100 days and even less if the horse had the necessary endurance. Complete statistics of the condition of the horse and rider, amount of food consumed and other details will be kept from day to day.

RAILROAD RECORD.

TO GIVE UP PRESIDENCY.

Friends Say Harriman Will Relinquish Title.

To Be Chairman of Board of Directors.

Scheme Is Like System of the Gould Lines.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OMAHA, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A strong impression prevails among railroad men that Harriman will not be reflected as president of the several roads in the system which bears his name.

It is common talk that after the next annual meeting of the different roads the title of president will be held by the present vice-president and that Harriman will become chairman of the board of directors.

Under this plan Mohler will become president of the Union Pacific; H. R. Calvin, of the Southern Pacific; W. H. Bancroft of the Oregon Short Line and J. P. O'Brien of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company.

The plan is similar to that now in effect on the Gould system.

RUSHING ROAD.

PRESIDENT EXPLAINS WORK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) April 14.—H. R. Williams, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad of Washington, says:

"The story that the St. Paul road will abandon or modify its plans for an extension to the Pacific Coast is 'wind.' There is nothing to it. We are pushing construction work as rapidly as possible, insisting that contractors send every available man to work and fighting hard to rush our Pacific Coast extension to an early completion.

"I have just returned from an inspection trip over the road building between Lind and Tekoa. I drove over the right of way and found the contractors prepared to put every man to work that could be found. We have been delayed because of the impassable condition of wagon roads over which supplies must be hauled to the contractors' camps.

"Engineers in charge of the work in the mountains have just reported to me that the season is a month later than last year, but we are sending men as far into the mountains as practicable and as soon as snow is off will hurry construction work over the summit.

"We expect to have a road west of the mountains in operation some time next year and we will operate it not only for construction trains but to handle such traffic as is offered. In fact, we intend to put each section of the line that is practicable to operate into operation as rapidly as possible.

"Photographs of work on the bridge across the Columbia River show that work on piers is progressing rapidly. This bridge is being rushed harder than any other piece of work, for it is one of the most difficult pieces of work we have."

BUILD LONGER BRIDGE.

FORTY-EIGHT PIERS HOLD IT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The big railway bridge across the Columbia River which the Portland and Seattle Railway Company is building at Vancouver, will be a mile and a half long—the longest steel bridge in the world. Work was begun in January, 1906, and will be finished next January.

There are forty-eight piers, ten in the river, and the rest on an island and in the slough. Those in the river are sunk forty feet below bottom and are built of solid concrete from the bottom to within forty feet of the top.

The upper portion is constructed of solid granite blocks. The piers range in depth from 100 to 110 feet. The steel to be used in construction of the bridge will weigh 30,000 tons.

TREMBLES FOR POTATO GRAFT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] During the investigations of a grand jury committee into the dealings of the city commissary department, of which Supervisor Thomas J. Gallagher is the head, it came to light that James A. Snook, a contractor and commission merchant, held a contract to supply potatoes to the jails and hospitals of the municipality at three-quarters of a cent a pound. The price of potatoes has risen to two cents a pound, with every prospect of its going higher, and in order to save the contractor loss, Gallagher conceived the idea of allowing the contractor the market price for potatoes despite his contract.

As the details of the transaction were about to be perfected, along came the grand jury investigating committee and Gallagher trembled for his rake-off. There is no evidence in the grand jury room to show that Snook had been consulted about the deal, but it is certain that Gallagher approached a grand juror with the proposition that as chairman of the investigating committee of the commissary department he should wink at this violation of the law.

Gallagher's proposal was indignantly rejected by the grand juror and he informed Gallagher that the grand jury would see to it that the head of the commissary department compelled contractors to live up to their contracts with the city. Gallagher's face took on a variegated hue as the words of the grand juror lopped him out of a nice month's perquisite.

While the amount appears insignificant at a glance it will be seen that the supply of potatoes to all the hospitals and wards of the Board of Health and to all the jails of the Sheriff's office amounts to considerable. In the city and county hospital alone 300 pounds of potatoes are used daily. At the contract price of three-quarters of a cent a pound that would amount to $1.50. At two cents a pound the price would be $7.50, or a difference to the city of $5.60 a day. For a month the difference would be $168. Besides the central hospital there are the several emergency hospitals, the city prison and the branch jails. A fair estimate is a proposed graft of $1000 a month on the potato contract alone.

SAYS MEN MUST KEEP UP ARMY.

DR. MORGAN DIX HOLDS DISARMAMENT IMPOSSIBLE.

At Memorial Service of Loyal Legion He Protests Against Men Who Decry Soldiers or Their Work and Asserts They Are Necessary to Preserve World Order.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In his sermon at the memorial service of the Loyal Legion of the United States today, Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, rector of Trinity parish, predicted that "If international war should cease that happy occurrence would not bring war to an end; it would still have to be waged, not by nation against nation, but within each nation, between forces protective of law and order and other forces, destructive to the peace and quiet of the State."

Dr. Dix's sermon was heard by Bishop Potter, and several prominent army and naval officers of the Civil War and their guests. In it he prophesied the greatest war this planet has ever seen.

"You, as members of such an order as this," said Dr. Dix, "can have no sympathy with people who waste time and breath in decrying the soldier and misrepresenting the value of his works, with such as would disband, had they the power, the armies of the United States and run our navy on the rocks, there to break up and go to pieces."

TAFT PARTY AT SAN JUAN.

Troops Are Reviewed and the Prominent Citizens of the City Greet the Secretary.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN JUAN, April 14.—Secretary of War Taft, and his party, arrived at noon today on the government yacht Mayflower. Gov. Winthrop and the Secretary of Porto Rico Post went aboard to greet the Secretary. The yacht was taken to the naval station landing, where it was met by the naval officers here.

Secretary Taft was escorted by a battalion of marines to the city entrance, where Lieut.-Col. Bailey of the Porto Rican regiment and staff, awaited him. Under escort of the regiment, the Secretary, who was in a carriage with Gov. Winthrop, was driven to the palace, where from the balcony he reviewed the troops. After the review an informal reception was held, and prominent citizens called on the Secretary. Mr. Taft is the sixth Cabinet officer to visit the island since it was occupied by the Americans, Messrs. Alger, Payne, Moody, Root and Metcalf preceding the Secretary. The Mayflower being sighted was a signal for the cheering of thousands, and the streets surrounding the naval station were filled with eager spectators.

SEARCHLIGHT JOYOUS OVER FINISHED ROAD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEARCHLIGHT (Nev.) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Eight Pullman coaches constituted the first complete passenger train into Searchlight over the Santa Fé line, and brought three hundred visitors to the camp, which has declared a two-day holiday in celebration of its rail connection with Los Angeles.

Many of the excursionists are guests of the townsite and mining companies, and among them are merchants interested in the business prospects of the district, mine operators and investors.

Excursionists have been visiting the mines and enjoying the entertainment provided for them by the townspeople, and those who have some knowledge of mining are surprised at the businesslike development of the forty-three mines of the district. Most of the properties are being systematically opened to obtain depth and block out ore bodies, rather than to make a superficial showing, by taking out and shipping the best rock.

Where this policy has been followed, as it has been in all but a very few Searchlight prospects, no failure has been recorded. Sufficient depth has been reached to demonstrate the fissure character of the veins, and the wide extent of the mineralized area is proved by successful prospecting to a distance of three miles out on the flat below the old-er mines.

Searchlight is now a mining town, not a prospectors camp. It differs from the old-time mining camp, in that it is orderly, conservative and tinged but slightly with the wildness of the West. The "bad man from Bitter Creek" is not encouraged to do dime-novel stunts. One bibulous citizen tried to add to the gaiety of the reception on Saturday by making a hip-pocket bluff at a publican, which in old days would have landed the bad one in the cemetery. The publican did nothing more severe than to get a jiu-jitsu grip on the bad one and wipe the sidewalk clean with him.

The chief excitement is provided by the rivalry of townsite promoters. There are several schemes of that nature, and each has its partisans. There are enough town lots staked out in the vicinity of the camp to make a city as large as Los Angeles. The townspeople are beginning to see that too many townsite schemers are not doing the camp any good.

The inflamed imagination of lot boomers see cities all over the hills and plains but buyers who have purchased lots on a representation and then journeyed to Searchlight to view their property, are not pleased with the prospects. There is no plausible excuse for townsite locations east of the old town, or north of the terminal site on the flat. The old camp and the townsite at the railroad terminus are the only possible locations. How much of the business of the camp will drift down to the new townsite on the flat is a question that agitates Searchlighters and divides them into two parties.

The terminal townsite people are entertaining some forty odd visitors, who came in Manager F. J. Abbott's special car. Mr. Abbott brought a caterer and supplies from Los Angeles and has been serving in a new store building near the depot site meals that would be creditable to the best café in Los Angeles, therein giving to the camp an object lesson on the change in living conditions resulting from the coming of the railroad.

The railroad also is bringing in mining and milling machinery, reducing the cost of operating mines, and will increase the number of producing mines by making possible the shipment of ores that would hardly justify wagon hauling.

The importance of railroad day is fully understood, and Searchlight is celebrating on a scale commensurate with economics significant of the change in her relations with Los Angeles.

President Favors Scrutiny of Campaign Funds.

Will Urge Bill to Expose Corrupt Deals.

Ignores Measures Brought in for Notoriety.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The next Republican Presidential campaign will be conducted on vastly different lines from the campaign of 1904, so far as contributions are concerned, if the President has anything to do with it.

That the President does believe he will have something to say as to its conduct, is shown by the fact that a "corrupt practices" bill will be introduced in the next Congress which will have his support.

The various publicity bills regarding campaign contributions introduced in the House during the late Congress were killed by their framers desiring to gain notoriety through them. Because of their number and character, the President refused to indorse any of them.

Since Congress adjourned the President has told some of his friends that by the time Congress meets in December next he is hopeful that some measure which he can fully and unreservedly indorse will be prepared and presented. The President personally is greatly interested in securing such a bill.

He wants it known what corporations and individuals contribute to campaign funds. If he has his way the Republican National Committee will be able to "open its books."

If Secretary Taft should become the nominee, the President will exert his influence to have an "open book" campaign conducted, especially with regard to the contributions to the campaign fund.

HISEY MAKES FLAT DENIAL.

DID NOT ADVISE W. J. BRYAN AS TO HIS CANDIDACY.

Wheelborrow Politician Will Have a Grand Voting Contest for a Wife and Any Woman in the Country May Cast a Ballot—Says Cleveland Married Too Late.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WATERLOO (Iowa) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Andrew Townsend Hisey, who lives in a wheelbarrow, and says he is a candidate for President of the United States, declares the rumor that he tried to dissuade William Jennings Bryan from entering the Presidential race next year is false and malicious.

He explained that it was his intention, when elected, to offer Mr. Bryan the portfolio of State and to Mr. Roosevelt the portfolio of War.

Although his silk hat was sodden with rain, his frock coat out at the elbows and his faded overcoat had three buttons missing, Hisey's eye was cheery and hopeful of victory. He said he had completed the details of his grand voting contest for a wife. This is to include the entire nation. He also definitely fixed the date of his marriage as October 10, 1908.

"Grover Cleveland committed the error of his life," observed the little man, as he readjusted his spectacles and gave his battered tile a backward tilt, "by waiting until elected before getting married. He saw it when it was too late, and has often talked to me about it. A President is burdened with weighty problems of state and should not be pestered with the additional problem of matrimony.

"I am going to get busy before the next Presidential election. I am going to take the great American people into my confidence and allow them to express a preference as to who is to be the White House matron when I am President. I am going to let any one nominate candidates and am going to allow all to vote.

"There are 15,000,000 marriageable maidens in the United States—didn't think there were so many, did you? And all of them will want me. I will make my headquarters first at Tama, Iowa, later at Des Moines, and still later at Washington. I'll have to move to Washington, anyhow, after the election, and might as well go earlier. I am not particular who the successful contestant may be. All that is necessary is for her to receive the highest number of votes."

Hisey's wheelborrow is eight feet in length, three feet in width and contains mattress and bedding. It is covered by a tarpaulin to keep out the storms and is lit by lanterns. Hisey sleeps wherever night overtakes him.

KING LEOPOLD CRITICISED.

Government Accused of Sharp Political Practices and Dissolution of Parliament Seems Certain.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BRUSSELS, April 14.—King Leopold's unprecedented action in withdrawing by royal decree the government bill concerning the hours of labor in the mines has aroused the greatest indignation in all parties. The situation is aggravated by the fact that the decree was countersigned by Ministers who had officially resigned and therefore possessed no authority before Parliament.

The government, under the law, is entitled to withdraw a bill presented in both houses until the Senate adopts it, but in not announcing the decree until after its resignation, and when it had been demonstrated it had only thirty-two supporters, the government is considered as being guilty of political sharp practices. The situation is grave and dissolution of Parliament is inevitable.

PITH OF NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO (Ill.) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Chicago had a chilly Sunday, but the weather was clear and that was some consolation after the snow and drizzle of the last few days. Relief from the low temperature is promised tomorrow but it is to be accompanied by rain. The maximum temperature today was 34 deg., while the minimum was 23.

Middle West temperatures: Alpena, 30; Bismarck, 60; Cairo, 46; Cheyenne, 62; Cincinnati, 34; Cleveland, 32; Davenport, 44; Denver, 74; Des Moines, 46; Detroit, 34; Devil's Lake, 38; Dubuque, 42; Duluth, 28; Escanaba, 30; Grand Rapids, 30; Green Bay, 32; Helena, 54; Huron, 54; Indianapolis, 36; Kansas City, 46; Marquette, 26; Memphis, 52; Milwaukee, 32; North Platte, 64; Omaha, 44; Rapid City, 64; St. Louis, 44; St. Paul, 42; Sault Ste. Marie, 24; Springfield, Ill., 42; Springfield, Mo., 50; Wichita, 52.

JOLT TICKET SCALPERS.

Scalping of theater tickets received a jolt tonight which may be of value Tuesday when the legality of the ordinance prescribing penalties is to come before Judge Fake in the Harrison-street division of the Municipal court. Joseph Abrahams, an alleged chronic offender, was arrested tonight in front of the Ashland Block on Clark street with a bunch of tickets in his hand and a number of tickets which had been sent flying from his grasp into the gutter by an offended patron of the Olympic Theater.

PIANIST SAVES LIVES.

With a panic-stricken crowd dashing from the exit when a cry of fire sounded through the five-cent theater at Halsted and Madison streets this afternoon, Frances Lawther, a piano player, threw open the rear door just as the crush started and by so doing probably saved several people from serious injury and perhaps death.

INAUGURATE POSTMASTER.

Daniel A. Campbell, elected for three successive terms of four years as State Senator from the Twenty-first district, is now postmaster of the city of Chicago. He was inaugurated today at the Federal building, when Mayor-elect Busse turned over the keys of office and signed the customary receipts prior to taking his leave.

TO SAVE TENDERLOIN.

The Catholic Apostolic Church of Zion has decided to emulate the Salvation Army and preach the gospel in the "red light" district. A band of Zionists will invade the Twenty-second street "levee" next Saturday night, shout warnings to those who have forsaken the Lord and distribute tracts among the habitues.

FACE GRAFT EXPOSURE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Threatened with an exposure which promises to develop one of the biggest graft sensations in the history of the State the entire city of South Bend is anxiously awaiting the development in the disbarment proceedings brought against former State's Attorney George F. Kurtz.

WINS AGAINST TEACHER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BLOOMINGTON (Ill.) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Michael Burke, 14 years old, a pupil in the public schools of Tilonon, has been awarded $1200 damages in a lawsuit against his teacher, Miss Annie Kelley, and the principal of the school, S. Herman Case. The damages were awarded for alleged injuries resulting from corporal punishment. It was asserted that the boy was beaten with a club and permanently injured.

SEVERE FLOODS IN MONTANA.

MELTING SNOWS CAUSE MILK RIVER TO OVERFLOW.

Two Persons Known to Have Been Drowned and Other Fatalities Are Feared—Railways Washed Out and Buildings Under Water—Worst of Danger Yet to Come.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HELENA (Mont.) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two persons are dead, immense areas are flooded, and the worst is yet to come—the result of melting snows in Northern Montana, where the Milk River, from the central part of the State to the eastern border, is one vast expanse of water, its banks overflowed and people fleeing in all directions for safety.

Never since the settlement of the country by white men has there been such an amount of water, and as the snow has only fairly begun to melt, the result is awaited with trepidation.

Max Peters and his mother were drowned near Glasgow, while trying to make high land from their flooded ranch, and it is feared that others have met like fate.

The tracks of the Great Northern are washed out in several places, and all trains are tied up.

The railroad company is running relief trains to the sufferers to get them through if possible. Buildings in many of the valley towns are under water, and residents have been obliged to move into upper stories for safety.

Because of the vast amount of snow which fell last winter, it will be several days before the crest of the flood will arrive. The Missouri River, in Eastern Montana, is also rising rapidly with the result that much land in that section of the State is under from one to two feet of water. Reports tonight indicate a still further rise in both Milk and Missouri rivers, but give no further fatalities.

TO GO IN CARS ON MISSISSIPPI.

RAILROAD MAGNATES TO MAKE UNIQUE TRIP.

Will Travel in Private Palaces on Barges to Be Towed Behind Steamboat to Mouth of River, When Party Will Return by Rail—Scheme Beats Mark Twain's Method.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BLOOMINGTON (Ill.) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch] One of the most novel river trips ever arranged will be that of General Manager Mills of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois road, and a party of friends, who will occupy two private palace cars, which are to be loaded on two river barges and then towed behind a steamer to New Orleans.

The party left Chicago last night on a special train bound for Joppa, the southern terminal of the Eastern Illinois, in Massie county, on the Ohio River.

After reaching New Orleans, a tour of the South will be made, and the cars will be rearned to the North via Louisville and Nashville.

The movement of private cars down the Mississippi will be the first case of the kind on record, and the innovation is attracting much attention in transportation circles. It is cited as a noted contrast to the way Mark Twain used to travel on the Mississippi.

MENINGITIS. SCARES CITY.

Portland Closes Libraries, Fearing Epidemic.

Boy Employee Spreads Germs Over Books.

Increase of Malady Worries Physicians.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] So serious is spinal meningitis regarded in this city, that orders were today given by City Physician Wheeler to close the Portland Public Library, as it is feared the books have become infected with the disease germs. The direct reason for closing the library was the death last night, from spinal meningitis, of Robert Mattson, a boy of 17, who has been employed in the library.

Mattson was engaged in distributing books from the head library to the branch libraries. These will also be closed and all of the buildings fumigated. Work of fumigating the main library was commenced today. The building will not be opened until the middle of the week and not then if more cases break out.

Three new cases were reported today and the presence of the malady has caused great uneasiness among physicians who are powerless to check its onslaughts.

One of the most startling cases is that of Dr. Ray P. Robbins, who contracted the disease while treating a patient. He is now in the last stages.

TWO-POUND CHILD LIVES.

ENTERS LIFE WITH HANDICAP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At Elma, Thursday, there was born to the wife of Milton Spurgeon, a child which weighed but two pounds. Its fight and frail was the infant that Dr. Blair ordered a chicken incubator provided for the babe, and that the temperature be kept at blood heat. With careful watching and attention the child has continued to live. It is kept wrapped in the softest cotton batting.

Although the child was prematurely born, four months before its time, it now gives every promise of living. It is not longer than a foot rule, and is not able to make a noise when it cries. Its little hands clenched are not larger than ordinary marbles.

The breathing is perceptible and regular. The high temperature that is maintained causes the little thing to perspire freely.

IMPOSING FUNERAL SERVICE.

CHIEF SULLIVAN REINTERRED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—The remains of Dennis T. Sullivan, the former chief of the San Francisco fire department, who was fatally injured in the earthquake a year ago and died a few days after the disaster, were reinterred today with imposing civil honors and impressive religious ceremonies.

From the receiving vault at Lone Mountain, where they had rested for almost a year, the remains were taken to St. Mary's Cathedral and from there to Holy Cross Cemetery, where the interment took place. The cortege, many blocks in length, was preceded by 140 policemen and as many firemen, immediately after the hearse came the fire chief's horse "Brownie," which had taken him to the scenes of many fiery battles.

TULARE LAKE RISES.

THREATENS SANTA FE TRACKS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORTERVILLE, April 14.—Advices show that Tulare Lake is within less than two miles of Corcoran and is rapidly encroaching on the Santa Fe tracks, which will have to be moved several miles to the east unless the water commences to fall. This is not considered at all likely as Corcoran is built on the lake, is rising every day from the inflow through Porterville, is carrying quite a volume of water.

A heavy rain is now falling in the mountains above Porterville and this coming upon the large amount of snow there will probably result in a disastrous overflow of the lake.

Revolutionary Movement in Asia Minor Worries Him and Division Is Hoped for.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, April 14.—The Memorial Diplomatique says it has learned that the Sultan of Turkey is rapidly becoming worse and that he is most anxious concerning the revolutionary movement in Asia Minor. His advisors see one hope and that is a diversion in the form of a war with Bulgaria. Trouble with this country would be broken out but for the Sultan's fear that the Bulgarians, who are good mobilizers, would win the first day, and that this would be followed by an insurrection in Asia Minor.

INVITES BRAZIL TO HAGUE.

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 14.—Brazil has received official information from the government of the Netherlands that it is to participate in the approaching Peace Conference at The Hague. The Brazilian government has invited the existing commercial treaty with France, and it has been decided to announce also the agreement with France, Spain, Italy, Portugal and Switzerland under which the consular representatives of specified countries are allowed to intervene in the inspection and settlement of inheritances.

RUSSIA'S NEW TIME SYSTEM.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 14.—Russia is experimenting with the 24-hour system, the hours being numbered consecutively from one to twenty-four instead of two periods of twelve hours. The Minister of Railways has directed that the summer time for the railroads to Moscow be printed in the new system.

His advisors see no hope and that is a division in the form of a war with Bulgaria. Trouble with this country would not end but for the Sultan's fear the Bulgarians, who are revolutionary, would win the first battle and that this would be followed by an insurrection in Asia Minor.

POPE ANSWERS FRANCE.

Propaganda Appoints Pole to Take Charge of His Race Throughout United States.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ROME, April 14.—In his allocution at tomorrow's consistory, Pope Pius X. will devote an important passage to the conflict between France and the Vatican. It will be in protest against the changes the new law has made for the Church and the method the French government has adopted all through the controversy, especially with regard to the seizure of the documents in the Papal Nunciature, and their publication.

The Vatican denies that it intends to publish a white book in answer to the publication of documents of Monsiegneur Montagnini.

The Congregation of the Propaganda has decided to grant the claims of the Ruthenian Catholics in the United States for the appointment of a bishop, and has named Stephen Setere Erytynsky, who is a member of the Ruthenian Order of Basilians, as Titular Bishop of Doluis (Greece,) with the mission to assist the Ruthenian Catholics throughout the United States. His appointment wil be announced at tomorrow's consistory.

It is expected this concession will revive the claims of the Poles in America, who for years have desired their own bishop, but whose requests have been denied.

TO REGULATE MEMBERSHIP.

VATICAN NOTES DEMANDS OF CATHOLIC SOCIETIES.

Apostolic Delegates Make a Ruling as to Organizations Paying Insurance Premiums and Limits Their Parade and Burial Rights—Measures to Increase Peter's Pence.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ROME, April 14.—The Vatican is beginning to recognize the existence in the United States of an increasing Catholic element which continually voices a demand for the regulation of Catholic membership in the various fraternal organizations that are not strictly Catholic. Even organizations that are Catholic are not exempt from this demand for some such are accused of accepting as members laymen of every sect.

According to telegrams received by the Vatican, this matter was considered by the American archbishops recently in conference at Washington. These messages declare further that Mgr. Falconio the apostolic delegate in the United States, has decided that Catholics belonging to the organizations in question who have been paying insurance premiums for years may continue these payments in order not to lose their insurance, but that they shall not take part in parades, or be buried according to the rites of the fraternal societies, to which they belong.

The Vatican has refused heretofore to send to the various religious communities in the United States speaking a language other than English, bishops of their own nationality, but when it comes to a question of the oriental rites, it is inclined to consider the matter from a different standpoint. For instance, the case of the United Ruthenian Catholics of America, who, while acknowledging the headship of the Pope, retain the old Greek Slavonic liturgy and allow their secular clergy to marry. Thus the congregation of the propaganda has taken under advisement the appointment of a Ruthenian bishop for America.

The Austrian Embassy has urged this step for many years as most of the Ruthenians in the United States immigrate from Austria-Hungary. The Vatican feared, however, that the nomination of a foreign bishop may be considered by the American government as a hindrance to the rapid and complete Americanisation of the many foreigners flocking every year to the shores of the United States.

News has been received of the vigorous measures advocated by the American bishops for increasing the Peter's Pence. The Vatican hopes that these contributions will be increased to $500,000 in America.

BRYAN TALKS TO YOUTHS.

He Is Glad Churches Are Looking to Source of Wealth Given Them by Financiers.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, April 14.—William J. Bryan addressed, nearly 20,000 persons here today under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. and took as his subject the "Prince of Peace."

Bryan concluded, "One of our rich men," he said, "has reached a point where he sometimes finds difficulty to find people to take his money. And that I regard as the best evidence of the growth of a moral sentiment in this country. It means something when a great church pauses, hesitates, refuses to accept the money until it knows how it was made. I believe the time will come when churches and colleges will refuse to go into partnership in the spending of money immorally made. The influence of public opinion will be a powerful factor in the restoring of the righteousness. These great institutions should say to a man:

"'You did not make your money honestly; we will not share the odium with you.'

A reception was tendered Bryan after his address tonight after which he left for New York to attend the Peace Congress.

LETTERS EXPOSE MINISTERS.

PARIS, April 14.—M. Guyot Dessaigne, Minister of Justice, having surrendered the Montagnini document that contained references to officials of the Foreign Office, Foreign Minister Puchon has decided to submit the case of Edgar Lemarchan, Minister of France to Central America, to a council of the Ministry. Three other foreign office officials have been requested to furnish explanations of allegations concerning them in these dispatches.

Among the Professions.

Doctors, dentists, nurses and persons engaged in other professions will find a 2 or 3-line card printed in The Times regularly of great advantage. "Hurry" calls will be a sure result, and the cost of a standing announcement is trifling compared with the returns.

OLD INFORMER GOES TO JAIL.

Jack Page Must Answer to Ten Indictments.

Thought His Confession Had Gained Him Immunity.

His Evidence Sent Twenty Men to Penitentiary.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOLEDO (O.) April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Tottering under the weight of eighty years, Jack Page, upon whose confession more than twenty men were sent to the Ohio penitentiary for being members of one of the worst gangs of firebugs in history, was taken from the house of Jim Saunders, in Bryan, on Saturday night to answer to ten old indictments returned against him when the investigation revealed the gang in 1902.

The arrest was made on a bench warrant issued by Judge J. M. Killits, in spite of the fact that it was commonly supposed that Page was to be granted full immunity because of his confessions, which made possible the breaking up of the gang that had terrorized Williams county and Northwestern Ohio, for more than twenty years.

The machinations of this gang, which numbered more than four score men as nearly as can be estimated by the insurance department, aggregated over a million and a half of dollars. The gang was composed of wealthy and prominent men.

SHOOTS WOMAN BY HIS BAD AIM.

MRS. WILSON MIZNER'S BROTHER-IN-LAW IN SALOON ROW.

Charles A. Moore, Ex-treasurer of Chicago Street Railway Company, Shoots at Bartender and Wounds a Young Woman Who Sought to Interfere.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles A. Moore, former treasurer of the North Chicago Street Railway Company and a step-brother of Mrs. Wilson Mizner, widow of the late Charles T. Yerkes, shot and seriously wounded Florence La Monte, 25 years old, divorced wife of Clarence Crabb, early this morning in a concert hall at No. 165 North Clark street.

Moore attempted to shoot Horace A. Leichter, bartender in the place, because of jealousy over the woman, but the bullet struck Miss La Monte, passing through her right thigh. At the police station Moore told of his relationship to Mrs. Yerkes-Mizner.

For several months Miss La Monte and Leichter have been living at No. 248 Ohio street, and Moore is declared to have been more or less attentive to the woman. When he entered the concert hall, shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday morning, Moore seated himself at a table beside Miss La Monte and ordered several rounds of drinks. Leichter, jealous of the attention the former traction official was paying to Miss La Monte, finally approached the table and, after, an angry exclamation, he struck twice at Moore.

Moore jumped from his seat at the table, drawing a revolver from his pocket, and at the same time his daughter Anna, a former opera-singer, and Miss La Monte sought to interfere. As Leichter turned to seek refuge behind the bar, the enraged man fired one shot, the bullet missing the bartender and striking Miss La Monte, who sank to the floor.

Hastily replacing the weapon in his pocket, Moore ran from the saloon to his room, No. 381 Dearborn avenue, while his daughter followed.

Two hours after he had fled from the saloon, Moore was arrested at his room by Detectives McNally and Messner, and at the station he was booked on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

FEUDIST IS ARRESTED.

SAYS HE FIRED IN DEFENSE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BEATTYVILLE (Ky.) April 14.—Clay Thomas was arrested today for the murder of Jesse Abner last night. Thomas says Abner struck him with a rock and came near knocking him off his horse and that he drew his revolver and shot Abner.

The killing is the result of the Hargis-Cockrell feud, in which John Abner, a relative, is a central figure. The men are known to have quarreled at the time John Abner was in jail charged with the assassination of Dr. Cox and Thomas, had accused Abner of opposition to the Hargis family.

ARREST FORGER BAND.

NIP OPERATIONS AT START.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, April 14.—Police of France and Switzerland have arrested a band of bank note forgers who apparently had just commenced operations. The total value of the forged bank notes already in circulation is not known to the Bank of France, but it is believed that the criminals have had no time to dispose of more than a few thousand francs. The notes were made in Switzerland.

THROWING HIS MONEY AWAY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SANTO DOMINGO, April 14.—An American, claiming to be Ely Dorse, a captain of United States marines, and, apparently insane, has been freely distributing currency in ten and twenty-dollar bills here. The Chief of Police searched the man today and took from him several hundred dollars.

Later Dorse was noticed handing a twenty-dollar bill through a window in payment for a glass of wine and on being searched for the second time nearly $4000 in United States bills were found in his underclothing. Dorse, who apparently is about 65 years old, says he is a native of New York City.

There is no officer of marines named Dorse and no such name in the New York City directory.

CRIME BRIEFS.

Woman Denies Attack.

HOUSTON (Tex.) April 14.—While posses were scouring the woods tonight in the vicinity of Kirbyville, a small town near here, in an effort to apprehend a negro, who it was alleged, by T. T. Tissue, a farmer, had criminally assaulted and shot his wife, the woman regained consciousness and denied the story. She would not state, however, who shot her. This caused suspicion to rest on the woman's husband, and and enraged mob took him. Officers prevailed on the citizens to surrender him and he was placed in jail.

Burglar Shoots Householder.

NEW YORK, April 14.—George Shambacher, a wealthy real estate dealer, 56 years of age, was shot and mortally wounded while in the dining-room of his home today. His family believes that a burglar surprised by Shambacher shot him.

FIRE CAPTAIN ANSWERS CALL.

HOME SUCCUMBS TO INJURIES SUSTAINED BY A FALL.

Leaves Widow and Three Young Children—Funeral to Be Public. Deceased a Law Student Before Entering Department—His Rise to Responsible Position Rapid.

Capt. Thomas S. Home of Engine 19, who was injured Friday by falling through the pole-hole at the engine-house, died at 9 o'clock yesterday morning at the Clara Barton Hospital, surrounded by the members of his family. Since the accident he had been conscious only at intervals.

CAPT. THOS. HOME, of Engine Co. 19, who died yesterday from injuries sustained in a fall.

In moments of delirium Capt. Home believed that he was engaged in fighting a stubborn blaze. He would raise himself on his cot and call orders to his men. When he was conscious he recognized and spoke to those at his bedside. His wife is prostrated with grief.

The family of the dead fire officer lives at No. 1434 Naud street. The children are Marjorie, aged 10; Johnnie, aged 7, and Walter, who is 16 months old. The father and mother and two brothers of Capt Home also live in Los Angeles.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed, but owing to the desire of friends, it will be public. Many members of the Los Angeles fire department will attend.

Capt. Home came to this city in 1884 and attended the schools here. He worked for a time in the mailing department of The Times, and later entered the law offices of Griffin Johnson. He joined the Los Angeles fire department while in his early twenties and rose rapidly to the position he held at the time of his death.

He was a fearless fire fighter. Nearly ten years ago he sustained an injury at a fire from which he only recovered because of his rugged constitution.

BULLFIGHT IS BLOOD STIRRER.

"Toros Artificiales" Draws Crowd to Latin.

Wild Enthusiasm and Riot of Color Mark Event.

Burlesque Is Astonishingly Like Reality.

"Toros artificiales para esta tarde" was the sign posted at the electric railroad crossing at Latin, which drew thither crowds of Mexicans and Americanos, yesterday. It was a bullfight, with all of its jollity and liveliness, but none of its brutality.

Like a scene picked up bodily from down in old Chihuahua, was the setting at Latin, yesterday afternoon. There were the groups of Mexican families, with the women and children sitting idly in the shade; there was the arena for the fight, with "el toro," and the "toril," or encircled stall, where the bull was kept until the time for the attack of the toreros and picadores. There was brilliant color in the costumes of the matadores, in the decorations of the many-hued banderillas and in the scarlet capotes, or mantles, which the matadores waved in the face of the bull to stir him to fighting anger.

And the crowd of spectators was the most care-free, appreciative assemblage imaginable. The gathering at Latin threw itself with absolute abandon into the pleasures of the afternoon. Every fine play of the matadores was noted; every dextrous evasion of the bull's sharp horns by the horsemen was greeted with cheers and cries of delight; every joke and antic of the clown was appreciated. And when one of the horsemen was gored by the bull and fell to the ground, motionless, the crowd was hushed into silence, while a matadore ran up to the prostrate figure and quickly covered the face with a white cloth. While the injured rider was carried out a side tent, the crowd held its breath. But the next sally of "el toro," when he caught the clown by the seat of his baggy trousers, brought forth howls of merriment, and the "slain" fighter of a moment before was forgotten.

RUN GAMUT OF EMOTIONS.

There wasn't a hitch in the performance. Both actors and assemblage acted their parts to perfection. In fact, it is doubtful if even the genuine thing, where a poor dumb brute is tortured and finally killed by its tormentors, could have been much more effective in the display of emotions than was the burlesque at Latin yesterday.

For it was simply a burlesque, with a swarthy man underneath the bullock's hide; but a man who had studied the actions of "el toro" when in the fight so well that he kept his tormenters keenly alert to escape the dashes and dives of the heavy head and the vicious horns. Occasionally there was a dive to the rope's edge, and the crowd would scatter with yells of alarm. It was "make-believe" carried to the point of absolute sincerity—like children completely carried away with their game of playing "grown-ups."

ODD SETTLEMENT.

Latin is an odd little settlement on the Pacific Electric's Long Beach line, located just this side of Watts. The "camp" is composed of forty-eight small cottages erected by the railway company for the use of its Mexican laborers. There are more than 200 residents in the camp, which is ruled by the big and genial but firm-handed "Joe" Blanchard. He is an autocrat in this little world, but evidently a beneficent one, for the erstwhile camp troubles have disappeared since the reign of Blanchard, and entertaining and harmless sports have taken the place of fights and brawls. It was through Blanchard's desire to give the men of the camp some outdoor amusements that the idea of burlesque bull fights was conceived.

One might imagine that this affair gotten up in a simple Mexican railroad camp, would be crude and would lack many of the fittings to give it an air of reality; but it was said yesterday that the men had expended many dollars in their outfits, and many hours of labor in the preparations of the costumes, grounds and "steeds."

HANDSOME COSTUMES.

Probably no more handsomely costumed matadores could be found in the real contests of Old Mexico; for there were four stalwart, lithe-limbed and active young fellows—Señores Gonsales, Augustino Sanches, Juan Moreal and Guadalupe Arfole, led by "El Capitan" José Rilla—who all had actually seen service in the bullfights of old Chihuahua, and who brought verve of their former experience, and the brilliancy of their vari-colored costumes. Then there was the clown, Julian Ramirez, who needed no interpreter, for even the Americanos could understand and appreciate his jokes.

First came the striking procession around the cottages of the camp. Youthful Mexican is great on processions; nothing is really first-class unless there is a procession attached to it in some manner. The procession of yesterday stamped the affair with the badge of completeness at once.

MARCH IN BRAVE ARRAY.

With men twanging guitars and sawing on wheezy accordions, the procession of toreros, picadores and matadores, moved forward in brave array. The clown went ahead and made his proclamation in true Fiesta style. The came the remarkable stand of banderillas, barbed shafts whose stems were covered with multi-colored tissue papers cut in fantastic styles; and unally came the "juez de plaza," or judge.

ENTEL EL TORO.

The grand entry into the arena, roped off and surrounded by the crowd, was made with due ceremony, and at the same moment "el toro" was released from the "toril," or bull stall, where he had been concealed all this while from the assemblage.

At four stations in the arena there had been set up barricades of railroad ties planted on end, behind which the matadors could jump when they were in dire danger from the angry bull. With their waving of the brilliant red capotes, the men soon had the bull stirred up, and there was lively sprinting and scientific sidestepping to avoid his fury.

Finally, when the bull had become sufficiently maddened by the evasion of his tormenters, the matadores began to cast their banderillos, which pierced the "animal's" hide, and made him more furious still.

EL CAPITAN GIVES THRUST.

After the brave horseman was "killed" and carried out, then "el capitan" waved aside the other matadors and himself took the honor of slaying the beast. With the bright colored banderillos hanging in his neck and side, the bull made a lunge at the captain, and was thrust with the sword. "El toro" gracefully swayed to and fro and finally collapsed, while "el capitan" bowed right and left to the cheering crowd. Into the arena again pranced the picadores. They quickly attached ropes to the "dead" bull and dragged him out of the ring.

Once during the fight the bull escaped his pursuers, and with a wild dash, broke over the ropes of the arena and plunged madly through the crowd, sending people shrieking to all sides. Quickly assembled the band of horseman, and a skillful cast of the lasso caught the animal, which was forced back into the ring. The crowd simply went wild with delight over the quickness and skill of the play.

Probably 500 people witnessed the entertainment, and every passing car on the electric road stopped to give the passengers a glimpse of the scene which was so good a counterpart of those which many of the participants had witnessed in their native country. Most of the Mexicans of the Latin camp came from the State of Chihuahua, and with their bullfight restored to them—even though in burlesque—they feel "at home" in a strange land.

But the United States is not to be a strange land to these comers, eventually. It is said that many of the men of this camp have been saving their earnings and are investing in the cheap lots of Latin and Watts, and that some of them even now are planning for the erection of little homes thereon.

The matadores.

BURGLAR WEARS PETTICOATS.

BREAKS WINDOW OF JEWELRY STORE AND ROBS.

San Fernando Street Incident Enshrouded in Mystery—Police Trying to Find Out Whether Criminal Is Man Disguised as Woman, or Is Really a Woman.

A burglar in petticoats was discovered attempting to break into P. A. Gianera's jewelry store at No. 611 San Fernando street, about 12:15 o'clock yesterday morning, but escaped capture. Several articles were missing from the show window, which was smashed. A man stationed to watch for police also lends mystery to the case.

As a night employé of the Southern Pacific yards passed along San Fernando street his attention was attracted by the stooping figures of two persons. Suddenly there came a crash of glass, and outlined against the building the railroad man saw the figure of a woman. A man was walking uneasily to and fro as if on guard.

The pair suddenly became aware of the approach of the railroad man, and the woman ran. For a moment her male companion remained, and then he ran after the woman. About that time an officer appeared upon the scene.

The policeman found that the lower part of the display window of the jewelry shop had been cut and broken in. There was every appearance of a professional's work. Several small articles were missing.

No one came near enough to the woman to give a description of her, although two persons living in the vicinity saw a man chasing a woman, as they supposed, but as the woman made no outcry, they did not interfere.

Whether a man is using the guise of a woman or a real woman burglar has made her début here, the police have not yet been able to find out.

BURGLAR CHASED OVER COUNTERS.

DISCOVERED WHEN ABOUT TO RIFLE STRONG BOX.

Enters the Mammoth Shoe Store Through Rear Window and Is Interrupted by Agent of Building—Exciting Pursuit Follows—Criminal Eludes Police and Leaves no Clew.

After an exciting chase around counters in the Mammoth Shoe Store at No. 519 South Broadway, last night, a daring burglar escaped from F. O. Osborne. The robber had secured the money from the cash drawer, and was about to rifle a strong box, when Osborne arrived and interfered with his plans.

About 8 o'clock Osborne heard the elevator operator of the building calling him. When he arrived at the shaft he learned that the operator had heard a noise in the shoe store. Osborne is the agent of the building. He went to the front door of the store, unlocked it and rushed in.

As Osborne turned on the lights a man ran along the row of counters and attempted to unlock the rear door. Finding that Osborne was upon him, the burglar dodged, leaped over two tables and ran to the window through which he had entered. He jumped out and fled down the alley.

In the meantime the police at Central Station and the Merchants' Fire Dispatch had been notified. The Dispatch automobile with a group of watchmen arrived about the time the burglar leaped from the rear window and pursued him in the machine. The robber dashed along Hill street and disappeared in a rooming-house. The watchmen went in after him, but he escaped.

An examination of the window showed that the burglar had "jimmied" it up. He had an accomplice, the police believe, who stood guard on the outside. Detectives are hunting for the men.

The amount stolen will not be known until the proprietors, Olcovich and Streicher, have investigated.

"A BANK ACCOUNT means frugality and independence. It engenders in the mind of each owner a pride of possession and an encouraging attitude of resourcefulness. There is a breadth of outlook possible to the man who feels that his credit is good at a moneyed institution, that does not come to another who indulges in the cash basis. The resources of the man who pays by check are known only to himself and the bank, while the man who pays by cash leaves nothing to the imagination. Sample Suits: Costumes Greatly Reduced

Bargains to Claim Instant Attention

Thank your lucky stars if you've postponed buying a suit or costume until today. Such a chance as this occurs maybe once a year—seldom oftener. Thirty-five exclusive models—just one of a kind—in exquisite Paris creations and charming adapted American designs, lowered radically from what we should ordinarily have to charge, because they're samples.

The styles, as you may imagine, coming from the best makers, are exquisite. Being but one of a kind, of course prices can only be hinted at.

A $192.50 costume is $135; a $97.50 suit is $68.50; a $77.50 suit is $55; a $118 costume is $77.50, and so on.

Colorings are all out of the ordinary. There's a three-piece costume, for example, a princess dress of light green voile, showing jacket trimmed with embroidered filet; made over cream taffeta, embroidered with light blue dots; $110, value $147.50. A costume of silk, has a skirt of brown and white plaid taffeta, trimmed with two rows of bias plain pongee like the brown jacket, which is made with a charming vest of embroidered filet; short Japanese sleeves, ending in deep embroidered filet cuffs; $87.50, value $135. A blue and white even-stripe suit shows a sleeveless jumper jacket, with collar of real Cluny lace, Val. edged, a handsomely plaited skirt—$67.50; value, $87.50, and so on.

Imported veils, serges, panamas, taffeta silk, pongee, fancy suitings and satins comprise the different materials included.

Fancy Spring Suitings

Today's Bargains

It pays to deal at a store whose say-so counts for something. The savings in the lots told of below are all that they seem to be. Let these hint of others.

Seven or eight different shades in blue, gray, green and tan check suitings, 45 to 48 inches wide, at 95c a yard; value $1.50.

Beautiful imported costume suitings; small plaids in black and gray; great bargains at $1 a yard, for the $1.35 and $1.50 values.

Black and white blended into stylish broken checks and plaids or hairlines; the season's best styles for light weight suits; 35c for 50c and 75c values.

Bargains in Beltings

Women can't get enough of these new tinsel and silver narrow beltings, apparently. Genuine bargains for today's buyers, in their sale at half value.

$1 grade, 50c; $1.25 grade, 65c; $1.50 grade, 75c, and $3.50 Japanese embroidered belting, $1.75 a yard.

Pearl buckles for these, 25c and 35c; lucky to get them for less than 50c or 75c apiece.

Waist pin sets for summer dresses, three alike, 35c; worth 50c and 75c.

Dainty washable belts, 25c; worth 35c and 50c. Some of them done by hand; all beauties, fresh and perfect.

Silk Sale---Important Savings

One emphatic advantage—and a big one—is the fact that these silks are—

Pen Points

They are all blaming Delmas. It is only success that succeeds.

It has been decided finally that the mollycoddle is merely the devolated dude.

The latest joke comes from St. Louis which claims to have a non-partisan Democrat.

James J. Hill never locks his office desk. There's where his head as well as his hair is long.

Unless the Russian Douma soon breaks out the members will be suspected of being mollycoddles.

An effort is now to be made to make Chicago "beautiful and lovely." The faith of the people is sublime.

Maine has decided to hang onto her prohibition law. It may come in handy sometime when she desires to enforce it.

If the trusts could devise a way to take everybody in with them a great deal of bitter feeling would soon disappear.

If all the stock companies of finance were as harmless as those of the theaters there would be less grief in this country.

CLIPPING THE EAGLE'S WINGS.

The masterful spirit and the great influence of E. H. Harriman are recognized by all just-minded people. He has won his position, too, through his own achievements. Whether we look with approval on all Mr. Harriman's ways of doing business or not, he is the architect of his own fortunes. Those who think some of his methods have not been commendable must recognize that his life has been far from being without usefulness. He is undoubtedly one of the great figures in the financial and industrial world of this day.

The greatest mistake he ever made was in his failure to recognize the legality and abstract justice of President Roosevelt's proceedings to reduce the management and operation of the railroads into exact accordance with the statute law and with the public interest.

There are not wanting indications that there are other powers than those at Washington being put into operation to check Mr. Harriman in his contention against the President. The man's spirit is so masterful that undoubtedly it is difficult for him to recognise any power superior to his own. This is a mistake for the greatest to make. The President's power is vastly superior to that of any, even the greatest, captains of industry in the land. Vast as Mr. Harriman's wealth is, it is an insignificant thing, all told, compared with the great financial interests that underlie his operations. It is these underlying financial influences which are operating to coincide with the President.

There came intimations the other day that Mr. Harriman's free hand in the management of the Union Pacific Railroad and its allied properties would be made less free. On Saturday morning came diplomatic modification of the first announcement. The second statement is that in the directorate of the Union Pacific is to be introduced certain new blood; and apparently, too, much care is taken to make it known that the persons to be introduced into the directorate are friendly to Mr. Harriman. It would hardly be thought possible that unfriendly influences would be placed there, for such proceedings would result in inharmony, leading eventually to an ugly clash. At the same time, it may be set down as probable that the contemplated change in the directorate will work out, as first intimated, in putting more or less restraint upon the Harriman combativeness.

ORANGE GROWERS DELIGHTED.

The Southern California orange grower should be as emphatic as the President when he says, "dee-lighted." How much he must wonder at the nightmare of anxiety, which sat so heavily on him in the early days of last January! Then he felt full sure all would be lost save tears unless the crop of navels should be marketed by April 1. That is an ominous day. He must now realize what a poisson d'Avril, in French phrase, he is to take so gloomy a view of things.

It is now close to the middle of April, and nothing is lost. To date (close of business at the railroad offices, April 11,) there have been shipped since the season opened, November 1, a total of 13,481 cars of citrus fruit. Of these 1260 were lemons, and 12,221 oranges. For the same period last season the shipments were 16,050, of which 1614 were lemons, and 14,436 oranges. This season is then behind last 2135 cars of oranges; but for the heavy rains and consequent blockades on the railroads, the difference would have been much less. As it is, there is nothing sensational in the showing. If some loss had resulted, the orange growers are the last people in the country who have cause to complain. The abundant rains with which a most benign providence has blessed Southern California are worth more than a few carloads of oranges. They mean all kinds of abundant crops, including oranges, for more seasons than the present.

But the interruption to shipping occasioned by the rains and washouts, or by any other cause whatsoever, did not result in any loss to the orange growers as a body. If one here or there suffered a slight loss, ten of his neighbors have made more money. How? Because of the excellent condition maintained in eastern markets by which prices have ruled high steadily. There has not been a sagging market at any point for a single day.

Another fear the growers allowed to trouble their hearts was that after April 1 the fruit would puff badly and drop from the trees. It is half way into April, and no reports are coming in of any such conditions. The fruit is running to large sizes, but it is firm and as full of juice and piquancy as at any period in the season. The oranges are still the best ever grown in the State.

There may be 5000 carloads of navels still to ship. The large sizes still make more carloads. If we can get out 150 cars a day for the coming days of April half of these will be gone. Then a little dropping may follow, but with all of May to take care of less than 100 cars a day, the market should keep up well. No anxiety need be entertained as to the few cars of seedlings or the handsome crop of Valencias here. June will find a market for any good fruit to be shipped of any variety. The Valencias can be held over until after the end of June. One grower in the San Gabriel Valley says he has 4000 boxes of Valencia oranges, and that he has no misgivings about not getting $2.25 a box net for them all. That is a nice income from a few acres of orchard. The grove is not as much as twenty acres, and $10,000 is a goodly sum to pick from the trees.

At present the auction sales in eastern cities show that choice to fancy navels net the grower over $1 a box. The California orange grower has always been well satisfied when his fruit has put in his pocket $1 per box.

EDUCATIONAL REVOLUTION.

Doctors disagree. This is an old cry, but it is often renewed in our daily experience. Such a revival came on Friday at a joint meeting of the directors of the Normal schools of the State. Frederick Burk, of the San Francisco Normal, in the picturesque phrase, "The Normal School is not a reform school," set forth his views that no change is desirable in the curriculum of these schools. His contention is that there is no public demand for any change, and that the Normal schools are to teach what the people want taught.

On the other side, Dr. Moore, the superintendent of the Los Angeles public schools, favored a thorough revolution in the curriculum of the schools generally.

The San Francisco Normal School teacher seems to come in contact with Normal School students and school teachers rather than with the general public. Dr. Moore, on the contrary, in his daily supervision of the public schools of all grades here, comes in direct touch with the public. This makes the conclusion a fair one that the Los Angeles superintendent of schools knows more about what the public demand than does the Normal teacher from San Francisco.

In opposition to Mr. Burk, Dr. Moore says: "Our present course of study is artificial and unsatisfactory." He goes on to point—how artificial it is, and how it is unsatisfactory.

He insists with wisdom that one-half of the stuff contained in the arithmetics would be more than enough. They are too complicated, introduce too many abstruse and puzzling problems, for the average mind of the grammar school student of the day. Another study which he instances with equal justice should be reformed, is grammar. Every practical educator who has given himself the trouble to think about his teaching and how he is teaching knows that all there is of technic in the English language can be set forth in a very thin volume of grammar. The practical teacher, if he knows what he is doing, has been compelled, in teaching English grammar, to condense long paragraphs into short sentences and large pages into small paragraphs in order to get the subject matter within the grasp of the average boy or girl.

The Los Angeles superintendent's contention is that the more practical affairs of life should make up a large part of the school course, from the kindergarten to the senior class in the university. This does not mean, nor would Dr. Moore advocate it, that there is no place for abstruse, technical studies. There is a place for them, but it is not in the educational course of the average boy or girl; it should be only applied in the higher education, properly so called, where the few who are intended for professional or scientific walks in life could train and develop their mental powers to the full upon these abstruse studies.

Another point well taken by the Los Angeles superintendent is that patriotic songs taught the children, with the accompanying music and the singing practiced daily in the schools, are most effective in educating the children's hearts in patriotism, which he considers properly more important than the excessive development of their mental powers upon abstruse arithmetic problems. He would also teach drawing. These two points have broad application to us here in California. We have here the climate for the production of musical vocal chords, and we have here the coloring to stimulate the eye to artistic effects. The coming Californians will be musical and artistic far beyond the average of the American population. We have Spain, Italy and Southern France, as well as Switzerland, here in this State. The natural environment will beget in the souls of the youth of this State a disposition to music and to art.

The absence of moral culture and development in the present school system is also pointed out by Dr. Moore. This branch of education is exceedingly difficult. He refers to the neglect of teaching domestic habits and skill in the homes of the day. He might also have referred to the lack of moral training in many of our homes. While contending that the girls should be taught to cook and sew in school because they are not taught these things at home, he also intimates that there is a need of a more thorough moral cultivation in our school system.

How much does the boy or girl graduate of the grammar school, or even of the high school, know about the history of the United States, or of our political system in its details? The pupil of the present day knows a good deal more than the one of fifty years ago, but he does not know half what he ought to know. In teaching the history of the United States he should not be confined to the memorizing of dates or of lists of names. The study should develop his love and admiration for his country and its institutions. The history of the United States, when we come to relate the achievements of its naval heroes, teems with stories which would prove anything but dry reading to the boy or girl if the stories were only told in proper dramatic form.

School can be made interesting instead of a bore if the school teacher knows his business and has the proper text-books in his hand. The real teacher, after all, depends but little upon text-books. If teacher, man or woman, would only learn the details of these stories woven all through the naval history of the United States, more real education could be done in a mere recital of the stories than in a week's study of dry details of dates and names out of any book.

The San Francisco pedagogue is wrong, and the Los Angeles pedagogue is right. The people do demand, and they are demanding as clamorously as their opportunities permit, a radical change in the public school curriculum.

Easterners should not marvel at the large fee to be paid Delmas. California lawyers are used to that sort of thing. Attorney Abe Ruef of San Francisco is said to have received fees amounting to $1,000,000 within the past four or five years.

The President says he has no pet candidate. But the country has one.

SCIENCE NOTES.

To Measure Rare Gases.

Prof. E. P. Lewis of the Physics Department of the State University is engaged upon extensive research work on the spectra for rare gases, for the extremely delicate measurements of which the largest and most accurate spectronometer ever erected in the State is being erected in the University of California mechanical laboratory by W. R. Stamper.

The instrument, when completed, will be as accurate as any in the world, and scientists will have an opportunity for research work not surpassed anywhere.

If the instrument was bought from a manufacturer it would cost not less than $500, but Mr. Stamper expects to construct it for $350, or less, using the machinery in his department. It is designed to do extremely close work in measuring angles, and will read to two seconds of arc. This is accomplished by the use of microscope verniers, similar to those on large astronomical instruments.

Wireless Across the Ocean.

M. Valdimar Poulsen, the Danish inventor, has invented a wireless system, which, he explains, is based on "singing" electric waves. During next month, he says, his experiments will be completed, and he will have established wireless communication with America from his trial station at Lyngby (five miles from Copenhagen.)

"The difference between the spark telegraph and my system," he says, "is that the spark method loses power and energy over long distances. My electric waves are invincible, and retain their strength over any distance. My waves sing through the world continually, and nothing can stop them.

"I commenced experiments over a distance of forty miles, with complete success. Then I tried my waves over a distance of 190 miles, meeting with the same success, even when I increased the distance to 380 miles, and 760 miles.

"At the present time I have communicated satisfactorily over a distance even greater than that between Denmark and America."

To Photograph the Breath.

The science of the photography of the breath was explained recently in Berlin at the annual meeting of the Roentgen Ray conference. Sinematographic pictures of the breathing of sick and healthy persons were thrown upon a screen. The inventor of the method is Dr. Koehler of Wiesbaden. It is expected that the discovery will play an important part in the diagnosis of tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases.

A New Explosive.

Potasimite is a new explosive, perfected in Monterey, Mex., and first used with success upon the construction of a Mexican Central Railroad branch with powerful results, for it is pronounced safer, cheaper and more powerful than dynamite. These explosives based upon nitrogen produce a gas that necessitates abandoning closed works, such as a mine or tunnel, during the explosion, and the laborers cannot return to work for a long time thereafter, depending upon the facility for carrying off the gas. Potasimite is said to produce no noxious gas, the only precaution necessary in its use being that the workmen get out of the way of the flying particles of blasted rock.

OBSERVATIONS ON THE SPOT.

BY HARRY C. CARR.

Here are a few vagrant impressions of life in the new San Francisco.

It is amazing that two cities merely 500 miles apart could be so different in thought and feeling as Los Angeles and San Francisco.

At first, San Francisco strikes you as being rather vulgar but more friendly than Los Angeles. After you have been here a while you begin to see why it is that San Francisco stands for labor union outrages and Los Angeles does not.

It is not that San Francisco lacks courage. The people who left their burning homes without a wail a year ago as gaily as though on a Sunday-school picnic can never again be charged with cowardice.

They stand for Pinhead McCarthy because there is contagious feeling in the very air that "nothing matters."

"The plasterers are charging $9 a day. Oh well, we will charge them more for clothes and more for meat and law suits and doctor bills and get it all back."

Your first horror of labor union outrages, to your own astonishment and dismay, changes to a regret that you weren't there to see the fracas.

A Los Angeles man is in a continual state of amazement here.

Last night a drunken man was trying to get off a street car on Market street and managed to lurch into every one in the car. Instead of telephoning for the patrol wagon, the motorman came back and helped the conductor carry him out and prop him up all "comfy" against a pile of lumber out of the way of the teams. A car ahead and one behind stopped and the crews leaned out and offered suggestions. The passengers all watched with sympathetic interest.

Remember that this was on the main corner of San Francisco where the newspaper buildings frown down at one another.

On the curbing across from the Call building stood two policemen who looked on and took it all in without offering either to assist or interfere.

On another night, a disreputable, tattered, frowsy dope fiend gave a performance on Market street in that same block. He was half crazy. In the sight of a big crowd he was standing in front a store watching his own reflection in the plate glass windows. He was trying to catch his shadow or reflection when it was looking.

He would stand slyly with his face to the curb and pretend to be staring out at the traffic; then he would suddenly whirl around and try to catch his reflection off its guard. To his rage, it was always there waiting for him. He would get so angry to find his reflection there on the glass every time that he would shake his fists and yell.

Finally he tried finding some stunt that the reflection would not be able to do. He would pirouette and grimace and bow and twist himself into strange shapes, but the tricky old reflection always handed it back to him. That made him so mad he shrieked aloud.

Along came two policemen. You can imagine what two Los Angeles policemen would have done. But these two cops gathered him up with rough good nature and stuck him in the entrance of a saloon, where it was dark, and tossed him onto the floor.

"There," they said. "Stay there and sober up!" And with that they left him.

A great deal has been said about the discourtesy of San Francisco street-car men. I have found them very friendly; but different from Los Angeles street-car men. In the South they are better-mannered, but not more friendly. The difference is that if you were to scold a conductor here and take his number, you would probably get a clump behind the ear.

But ingenuous manners are characteristic of San Francisco. Going to a ferryboat a man will fairly climb over your head, not that there is the slightest hurry to get there, but he likes to bang around. Then he will beg your pardon with the utmost sincerity and good fellowship.

The prodigious wages paid to prodigiously ignorant people doubtless are the cause of much of the spitting, hacking and general vulgarity you hear even in the best cafés of San Francisco.

The most striking peculiarity of the people is the way they pick up acquaintances. They talk to one another quite naturally on street cars—women and men. Women of refinement and respectability fall into conversation with the most charming freedom with those whom they happen to sit next to on cars.

The expense of living here is something fierce. Rents are away up in the sky. They pay $75 for the dinkiest of flats. Meals are very expensive. The common barnyard café charges prices that confront you at the fashionable cafés of Los Angeles.

But they think it doesn't matter. People don't have homes here anyhow. Their houses are merely places where they stay nights.

These aimless remarks may not justly estimate things. Merely an impression.

PEOPLE OF THE COAST.

James W. Burke of Steamboat, Nev., is said to have been the first discoverer of gold not only in California, but also at Reno, Nev. He is now a rancher.

Charles G. Reed of Oakland is being backed by his friends for appointment as State Bank Commissioner, to succeed Commissioner Dunsmoor, whose term will soon expire.

Gov. Gillett and his family are now settled in the governor's residence at Sacramento, and the entire family was together last week for the first time since the Governor was inaugurated.

A. A. McCurda, deputy superintendent of schools of Oakland, has been elected president of the California Colleges and Academy of East Oakland, to succed Rev. J. G. Brownson, resigned.

Miss M. D. Lewis, a Methodist Episcopal missionary, who has been in India for the past six years, is in San Francisco, on a vacation. As a part of her missionary work, she has established a hospital for women that has already recorded an annual attendance of 35,000 patients.

The copper king is the name by which Charles G. Hubbard of San Diego soon will be known. At last he is to be rewarded for all the hardships he endured when he went to Alaska in 1898 with the resolve to make a fortune or never come back. One of his copper mines, the Elisabeth claim, is estimated to have a net value of twenty millions.

THE BIVOUAC AND THE OUTPOST.

[Los Angeles Cor., The Taylor Trotwood Magazine, Nashville, Tenn.]

Let an old soldier speak of the bivouac and the outpost.

Do you remember them, boys? The bivouac was on the margin of safety, where the forest covered a multitude of sinuous windings. The outpost was near the haunts of the wildwood, where the bearded whippoorwill tore off yards of monotone in an all-night engagement that required no scene shifting. At the vacated grounds of the bivouac, days afterward, might be found a smoldering camp fire, a ragged blouse, the bowl of a briar-root pipe, and windrows of chewed sugar cane. The outpost was a nerve-racker, a pulse-flusher, a tendon-tingler, and a breeder of flocks and herds of resolutions. It was the Nestor of Soliloquies. It took a hundred men to make a captain, a thousand to make a colonel, and five thousand to make a general, but an outpost was often made up of one man, one horse, and one countersign, and these three component parts were found strenuous enough to put the whole army in motion. A single shot from a sentry on outpost duty has precipitated a battle that lasted through woeful days of horror and suspense and put the weeds of mourning upon a continent. Some quick, sharp, outpost firing telegraphed danger to the reserves (the bivouac) at early dawn of a Sunday morning in April, and a Shiloh, a complete surprise, a sunken road, a gunnet's nest, a maelstrom of carnage, a potpourri of lies; and Wallace's "lost division" was the coinage of history. Outpost firing, on a certain second of May, served to show Robert E. Lee that Gen. Hooker's entire army had stolen a march, fateful in its portent to either the gray or the blue, and Jackson's night march, the attack on the Federal flank, the demoralization of the Union arms, the wounding of Hooker, Keenan's charge, and the sanguinary battle of Chancellorsville were the consequences. The lack of outpost firing once upon a time permitted the Federal arms to march within hailing distance of Hood's camp fires, placed Spring Hill in the historic column, enabled Schofield to give battle at Franklin, gave Thomas surcease of preparation at Nashville, and changed the outcome of an entire campaign which had promised to give back Tennessee and Kentucky to the control of the Confederacy.

In one of the hot months of summer the fire from a Federal outpost initiated a battle, the outcome of which illumined all lands with the halo of hope. This engagement was fought amidst waving grain and sweet-scented shrubs. The reapers had whetted their scythes. It was harvest time. The battle turned a pastoral province into a field hospital, and from Little Round Top to Cemetery Ridge was one crucial, fateful story of the "red badge of courage." The earth was furrowed with solid shot and Round Top was volcanic. Harmless leaves and herbs were tinted with a color not their own. The little pools collected in the prints of human feet and horses' hoofs were silent admonitions of the fearful cost of human slavery—as also the price being paid for universal liberty. The encarnadined pools were punctuating the steps of human progress—opening the door of hope. The trail of earthworms and insects that crawled from without those pools bore the one prevailing hue, and wrote their fateful lines o'er moss and thyme. Night drew her curtains about the field and the stars came out. Heaven keep us from the knowledge of the sights the moon beheld along the line of Pickett's charge. Heaven save our ears from the wails and cries that rent the air that night. Heaven keep us from the knowledge of the secrets whispered afterwards upon the tainted wind that blew across those scenes of death and suffering! Morn came and went and came again. Still the dense gray smoke of battle hung over grass and corn and fallowland and wood, and over roof and church spire, in nestling Gettysburg. And this, grave seigniors, patent pen pushers and honorable readers, is only one touch of the brush in that gruesome picture painted on the heavens all the way from '61 to '65.

"I believe," said he, in discussing the question, "that the successful actor of today cannot consider himself in a class apart. He cannot nurse his emotions in solitude, cultivate long locks and wear the expression of high tragedy that classic portraits attribute to the actors of other days.

STREAKS OF HUMOR.

Water's All Right.

"There is as much water in railway stocks as ever," remarked the financier. "Yes," answered Mr. Dustin Stax, "but it's a little harder to convince the small investors that the water's fine and they ought to come in."

About the Usual Result.

"My dear, will it bother you if I ask a question about our club book-keeping? You know I'm treasurer?"

"No; delighted, I'm sure."

Only One Answer.

A young clergyman in a remote country district wrote last Eastertime to Bishop Potter, saying that he was about to take a wife, and asked if, to save some other clergymen a long and weary journey, he could not marry himself.

The bishop's reply was marvelously concise. It said:

"Could you bury yourself?"

Borrowed for Short Time.

"Do you remember borrowing five rouples from me a week ago?"

"Perfectly."

"And you said you only wanted them for a short time."

OF PEOPLE AND THINGS LITERARY.

Ill luck seems to have followed the "Modern English Writers" series, the great work undertaken by the English firm of Blackwoods. Mrs. Craigie, who was to have written "Froude," died before her work was accomplished. Henly, who had undertaken to write "Dickens," also died before he had accomplished but a small part of his task. Now for the fifth year the firm patiently announces Quiller-Couch's volume on George Eliot, which has been delayed again and again, for some unexplained reason.

What can be accomplished by a man who loves his subject and brings to it a wealth of knowledge, is well shown in a little booklet which is gaining recognition in this country. This is "Essays on Glass, China and Silver in the Willet-Holthuysen Museum Collection, Amsterdam," by the conservator of the museum, Frans Coenen. Instead of making a catalogue, the author used the specimens in the museum as texts on which to hang curious and entertaining information and observations.

One of the most interesting branches of bookdom is that of "extra-illustrating," and lovers of it are at present discussing one of the finest modern examples of the art. This is a set of H. Noel William's "Queens of the French Stage," originally in two volumes, which has been extended to eight volumes by the insertion of engravings. There are over 600 plates in the volumes, and many of them are exceedingly rare. Among them are examples of the great eighteenth century French engravers, Cochin, Moreau, Saint-Aubin, Duplessi-Bertaux, and others. The volumes have been bound in full crushed levant Morocco by Riviere & Son of London.

Permission has been granted by McClure, Phillips & Co., publishers of "Pigs Is Pigs," for that story to be printed in raised point type in the Matilda Ziegler Magazine for the Blind. This magazine is a publication recently founded by the widow of the late William Ziegler, and as many requests have been received from the blind for the inclusion of Mr. Butler's story, it will appear in this month's issue.

The first medal which the Camp Fire Club has given in honor of an outdoor book was recently presented to W. T. Hornaday, the director of the New York Zoological Park, for his book, "Camp Fires in the Canadian Rockies." The board of governors voted that it should be awarded because of the value of the book to the cause of game protection in general, as well as on account of its great interest to sportsmen.

The Old Greek Press announces for immediate publication "Six Mad Men," by Rix Faber. This is a story of modern life, by a business man who has never before dabbled in the field of letters.

For the bicentenary of Henry Fielding, April 22, E. P. Dutton & Co. announce three different editions of his novels. The best edition is in five volumes, with illustrations by Hablot K. Browne.

What promises to be one of the important books on the Civil War will be published by the Scribners sometime this month. It is Gen. E. P. Alexander's "Military Memoirs of a Confederate."

"The Spider, and Other Tales," by Carl Ewald, translated from the Danish by Alexander Teixeira de Mattos, is announced for the latter part of April. This book is said to give in a very original way the facts of natural history.

An elaborate and semi-official exposition of Japanese national policies is announced for early publication by Longmans, Green & Co., of London, in the book entitled "Japanese Rule in Formosa." The author is Yosaburo Takekoshi, and the importance of the work is accentuated by the introduction, which is by Baron Shimpei Goto, chief of the civil administration. Amusing Mistake of Famous California Soprano Who Has Just Returned to City After Tour of Remarkable Success—Now Sought by Hammerstein.

Ellen Beach Yaw will be at home this week, or at the latest, early next week.

Home-coming to her is not a return to public triumphs, or to the "affairs" with which some celebrities expect to be showered; indeed, she wants none of this. Her longings are to get back on the big ranch at Covina, with her horses, her chickens and her rose-filled garden.

During the past winter Miss Yaw has been heard in almost every city of consequence in the East and the Middle West; she has sung in private recital, with symphony orchestras, in conjunction with other artists and on large public occasions.

Her progress seems to have been unvarying successful, to judge from the accounts of her work that have appeared in the principal papers.

Further than this, it is said that Oscar Hammerstein has pressed her for an answer on next year's opera, and that he desires her voice in the company, which this year has been made brilliantly successful by the voices of Melba, Bonci, Eleanore de Cisneros, Ancona and the rest.

Miss Yaw's tour has not been without interesting incidents, perhaps the most humorous of which occurred a week or two ago in Waterloo, Iowa, a town in which the soprano rested for a day or two, on her western journey, and in which she consented to sing.

Years ago a relative of her family, for whom she was very fond, moved to Waterloo. He was then an old man, and the childhood picture still remained in the singer's mind.

Going to the large town hall for a morning rehearsal, Miss Yaw espied the exact counterpart of this individual standing near the door, giving respectful attention to all she did. Laying down her music, the California girl rushed toward him, closing in upon him before he had time to dodge, and—to his utter astonishment—throwing her arms delightedly about his neck.

It was then her turn to be astonished. The embraced one proved to be the janitor, who talked with a decided brogue. He had never heard of the Yaw relative in Iowa. Neither had any one else. In fact, this story of relationship was looked upon with some suspicion by Waterloo folks, and especially by that janitor.

MINES AND MINING.

Quartette Company Buys the Rambler Group for Over Forty Thousand Dollars.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

SEARCHLIGHT, April 13.—The sale of the Rambler group of mines to the Quartette Mining Company is the big event of the week. The price paid has not been made public, but it is known to be at least $40,000.

The Rambler group comprises three claims, the Rambler, Emma and Contention, together forming the direct east extension of the Quartette. A shaft has been sunk to a depth of 400 feet, and work has been done on three levels.

In addition the Quartette also purchased from A. Philip Thompson, the two claims known as the Psychic and Asterbilt. These, in turn, form the east extensions of the Rambler, and were formerly owned by W. L. Roberts of Redlands, Cal.

Astonishing and sensational results are being obtained by the Greene Gold Mining Company, on its group of claims lying a short distance south of the Quartette and in a quiet way has been pushing development work for some months past. At a depth of sixty feet the vein averaged $138, while a recent sampling taken by Contractor John Howe from the bottom of the shaft, 88 feet deep, gave the following returns: $54.53, $94.21, $138.97, and $142.76. The vein has had an average width of eighteen inches, and the pay streak is fully six inches wide. A hoist will at once be provided, and additional depth gained as rapidly as possible.

The Fortuna at Eldorado Cañon has begun freighting ore to this point for shipment to Needles' smelter. The last assays run $7.28 to $365.26. There are large bodies of the low grade and a mill is being planned to handle that at the mine. It can be done at good profit, as water is plenty and the ore easily crushed, much of it screening without any crushing.

Pure Food Guarantee

An old English law provided that no man should beat his wife with a stick thicker than his thumb—a good law, and doubtless needed. But there were some gentlemen in England at that time who not only did not beat their wives, but even gave them a kind word now and then, just for luck.

The Pure Food Law, like the above law, was badly needed, and most heartily welcomed by reputable dealers; but we, for many years, have been a law to ourselves along these lines, and have endeavored in our feeble way to educate the buying public to the use of "Quality Goods," and perforce Pure Goods. We are proud of the results attained and expect always to deserve the high encomium expressed by our friends—"If it comes from A. & C. Co., it is good." Will YOU join the ever increasing number and allow us to show you.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—A well-marked depression over Nevada has caused thunderstorms from Salt Lake City to Reno. Showers have occurred in the great valley and along the coast north of San Luis Obispo. Silver is falling in the Sierra. The pressure distribution favors showery weather Monday over a large portion of California, followed by cooler, clearing weather.

For San Francisco and vicinity: Cloudy Monday; light north wind, changing to brisk westerly.

Sacramento Valley: Cloudy showers Monday, followed by fair fresh probably wind.

San Joaquin Valley: Showers Monday, thunderstorms in the mountains; brisk south winds.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Cloudy, probably showers Monday; fresh south wind.

Arizona: Fair tonight and Tuesday, cooler Tuesday in north.

EYTINGE SAYS HE'S INNOCENT.

Alleged Slayer of Leicht Tells His Story.

Prisoner in Irons Is Taken Back to Arizona.

Ex-Convict Admits Forgeries but Denies Murder.

Strongly guarded by officers, and with his feet manacled so that he could make no successful break for liberty, Louis V. Eytinge, ex-convict, swindler and forger, told yesterday for the first time of his association with John Leicht, whom he is charged with murdering near Phoenix, Ariz., on March 17.

Eytinge was taken through Los Angeles yesterday on his way from San Francisco to Phoenix. He was in charge of two operatives of the Hurst detective agency of this city, who cleverly effected his capture in the North a week ago, and was under the watchful eye of Sheriff Carl Hayden of Maricopa county.

Coolly and dramatically, Eytinge, who claims to be a nephew of Rose Eytinge, the famous actress, told the story of his meeting with Leicht in Arizona a few weeks ago, of their subsequent companionship, of the fatal ride out into the desert, of a quarrel and of Eytinge's flight.

Admitting that he uttered a number of forged checks in Arizona and even in Los Angeles after his flight from Phoenix, the prisoner declared his innocence of the murder of Leicht, although he carried his narrative up to the point in the vicinity of Phoenix at which the body of the dead man was found, and described with seeming exactness the events of the day of the alleged murder.

SAY HE'S MURDERER.

Despite his denials, the Arizona officials profess to have conclusive evidence that Eytinge murdered Leicht. The Coroner's jury that viewed the remains of the dead man returned a verdict laying the crime at the feet of the man now in custody.

Leicht was a young barber from Sheboygan, Wis. Afflicted with tuberculosis, he went to Phoenix in quest of health. He traveled from Chicago on the same train with Eytinge. They met at Ash Fork, and proceeded together to Phoenix.

Eytinge had been discharged on March 1 from the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus, O., where he had served a term of three years and four months for forgery. He had served a previous sentence in the same institution, and had been an inmate of the Ohio Reformatory. He also is a victim of tuberculosis, and came West for his health.

Arriving in Phoenix about March 5, Eytinge and Leicht roomed together, and on the 17th went for a carriage ride to the desert. Some hours later Eytinge drove back to the city alone. The same evening he left Phoenix.

BODY FOUND NEAR DESERT.

Failure of Leicht to return to his lodging house caused a search to be made for him. Eight days after his disappearance, his body was found in a clump of shrubbery, near the Arizona canal, about eight miles from Phoenix. A small bottle of chloroform was near the body, which was badly decomposed. An autopsy revealed the fact that he had died from chloroform poisoning. There were no valuables on his person, though he was known to have had considerable money, a watch, ring and other articles of some worth.

Suspicion at once pointed to Eytinge. It was heightened by the discovery that he had passed a number of forged checks in Phoenix. A reward was offered for his capture; $500 by the Governor of Arizona, $250 by the Supervisors of Maricopa county and $250 by the Eagles of Sheboygan, of which Aerie Leicht was a member. Through the efforts of the Hurst detective agency, Eytinge was located in San Francisco, employed as clerk in a haberdashery. He was arrested at once. In custody of the officers, he reached Los Angeles at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The party left at 9:40 o'clock last night for Phoenix.

LOUIS V. EYTINGE,
accused of Arizona murder, who was taken through Los Angeles in irons yesterday, bound for Phoenix.

DECLARES INNOCENCE.

"I am innocent of the murder of Leicht," said Eytinge during his wait for the Phoenix train. "Circumstantial evidence is strong against me, I admit, but the logic of the situation should appeal to any fair-minded person and clear away any doubt that may be entertained.

"I had plenty of money when I left Leicht. I passed a number of forged checks in Phoenix, one of them bearing the name of a friend of Leicht. This young barber from Sheboygan did not have more than $50 in cash and checks with him. Why should I kill him for that small amount, when by turning a few tricks with checks I could have got ten times that amount?

"I am willing to face the forgery charge, and I'm sure that, if I have a jury of fair-minded men in the trial for murder, I shall be acquitted. The doctors tell me I can live not more than six months in a city and no more than a year in the open air. I should hate to die even under the suspicion of being a murderer.

"I met Leicht at Ash Fork, where we both had changed from the Chicago train to take the branch line to Phoenix. We roomed together when we reached Phoenix. I paid all the bills for both of us while we were there, settling afterward with Leicht. I bought all our medicines and attended to every other need.

LEICHT'S LAST RIDE.

"We often talked of taking a carriage ride into the country to get a glimpse of the desert. After we had been in town about two weeks we got a rig and started out on the morning of St. Patrick's Day, March 17. We carried a lunch with us.

"We drove as far as the Arizona Canal, where we decided to eat our lunch. While resting near a sluice box, around which there was quite a growth of shrubbery, we looked out on the desert. I didn't like the looks of the cactus and the sand and I told Leicht I wasn't going any farther. Well, we whiled away quite a bit of time there.

"While we were loafing, I drew several pennies from the change pocket of my coat and began flipping toward a stone. Leicht became interested. He wagered that he could beat me. We went to it.

"First we flipped pennies, then nickels, then quarters, halves and dollars. Somehow I kept winning. In a little while I had won all of Leicht's money, together with a draft for a small amount; also his gun metal watch and his ring.

"When he had lost everything, Leicht began to cry. Then he became hysterical. I hauled out a lot of loose change, about $6, and offered it to him. He refused to take it.

SQUABBLE OVER MONEY.

"'You might as well have it,' I told him, explaining to him then that I was an ex-convict, that I had secured quite a bit of money in Phoenix on forged checks, some of it on the name of one of his friends, and that I was about to skip out.

"Then I tossed the money to him. He threw it back at me and it scattered over the ground. I used my handkerchief in cleaning the money as I picked it up. The handkerchief became soiled and I threw it away. That's how they came to find it when they searched for Leicht.

"Then I asked Leicht to get into the carriage and go back to Phoenix. He was unreasonable, due to his hysteria, I guess. He seemed to be thoroughly despondent, too. He said he wouldn't ride back with an ex-convict. So I drove away.

"On the way into town, it occurred to me that he might go to some ranch house and telephone to Phoenix that I had forged checks. I looked along the road for a telephone line, intending to cut it so he couldn't give me away. But there wasn't any telephone line.

"I got into Phoenix, left the rig at the livery stable and went to my room to pack up. While there I found Leicht's kit of razors. They were good ones. I took two. I had won about everything else he had. I didn't consider it wrong to take the razors. Besides, mine was no good.

"Then I bought a ticket for Pasadena, and left that night for the Coast. I was in Los Angeles more than a week but the police never bothered me. Later I went to San Pedro, Long Beach, San Diego and then to San Francisco by boat. There the Hurst people got me and here I am."

BRYSON NOT IN HIDING.

"The effort which some alleged newspapers are making to have it appear that 'Uncle John' Bryson is hiding, that he is seeking to evade service in the suit recently filed against him, or that there is something peculiar or questionable about his short absence from the city is foolish."

This was the statement made yesterday by one of the friends of the former Mayor. He went on to say that Mr. Bryson is in almost daily communication with those who represent him in Los Angeles, that he is making no effort to keep his whereabouts secret and that he does not desire to evade the service of proper processes originating in any court of law. The fact of the matter is that Mr. Bryson has gone north for a short rest. He departed before the suits against him were filed, and he is taking his time about returning, there being no real reason why he should hurry back. He knows of the suits and will contest them; in fact, he has, it is said indicated the line of action to be taken in defending himself against the legal action instituted by his wife and others.

SCORNS CURFEW.

Sam Keplam of No. 318 California street was arrested last night on the charge of violating the curfew ordinance. The officers have had special instructions to arrest all lads who loiter about the cheap theaters. Kaplam is 9 years old. The officer said he endeavored to induce the lad to go home, but that he refused.

At the Churches Yesterday.

The New Name.

REV. DANA W. BARTLETT of the Bethlehem Institutions preached yesterday morning at the Railroad street auditorium on "The New Name." He spoke of the old pagan custom of giving a person a new name for an important event or experience in their life, and told of the early Christians following this habit at the baptism of a member into their congregation, as a symbol that the past is buried and that a change had come into the life of the one with the new name. During his discourse, the speaker said:

"When a man really yields himself to God, certain changes take place in his life. He becomes an inspired man; a Spirit-filled man. We are often apt to speak of inspiration as though it were a thing peculiar to an age two or three thousand years remote, not thinking that God can inspire us today; that there are chords within us which will respond to God's touch. Because I realize the possibility of inspiration, I want to feel every day the touch of God, and sense the inflow of His love.

"The love of God is a transforming power. I have known men without any mental training, who were ignorant and illiterate, but who, when the spirit of God entered their hearts, have had their minds quickened. Behold, for example, Moody, who was unschooled, yet whose grammar and diction became perfect through the training of his religious experience.

"If I become a creature of God, I will be transformed, so that others will not know me, and I will hardly know myself. And with this change of mind and body, when there is the inflow of divine love, is to be placed above all the change in the heart. The spirit which was in the Christ comes into me, and I am filled with a new purpose in life. Those things which are sordid and sensual, no longer have any power over me, and material things are subordinated to spiritual things.

"Even nations may be transformed as well as individuals. What but the spirit of God has transformed Japan? When I was a boy Japan was still in its darkness of centuries. It knew nothing of kindness toward its enemies, and the success of its armies was reckoned by the number of heads brought back. But long before the coming of the missionaries, some Japanese discovered a copy of the scriptures, written in the Chinese language. They became fascinated with the teachings and character of Christ, and determined to apply His ideals to Japan. When the missionaries arrived, they found the leaven already at work, and today there is no country where more humane treatment is accorded to an enemy's wounded than is accorded by the Red Cross Department of Japan.

"The new movement for civic righteousness—the like of which was never before witnessed in any country—which is sweeping over the cities of our nation today, is a result of a spiritual awakening, and a quickening of the spiritual conscience.

"A new church is beginning to be born. On all sides the hard and cold formalism is dropping away, and the real spirit of life is taking its place."

Overcoming Evil.

At the Universalist services, in Cumnock Hall yesterday, the pastor, Rev. C. Ellwood Nast, spoke upon "The Law of Spiritual Conquest," from the text: "Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good." (Rom. xii:21.) In the course of his sermon, he said:

"The law on method of spiritual victory, as here defined, is not suppression but inspiration; not correction but attainment. We profess to be Christian, yet how commonly we ignore or invert this wise counsel. Our aim is to tear down rather than to develop. We make persistent and heroic efforts to produce a vacuum. No soul is in greater peril than one which by mere casting out of demons is 'empty, swept, and garnished.' Religion may be presented as a denial, a restraint, or as an ambition, a privilege, an opportunity. True progress is to be achieved, not by elimination but by development.

"If you succeed in curing a bad habit, what is to take its place? Man must have habits. Set yourself to cultivate good habits, good tastes, good aspirations, and the objectionable ones will disappear, without regret. The success of the Gospel in any life depends upon its power, not so much to control and defend, as to generate a noble, divine passion, exercise of which will leave no unsatified hungers, no idle hours or unused forces to invite the suggestions of evil.

"Equally unsound is the theory of social reform which aims merely to get rid of something. Hand in hand with wise prohibitions must go measures and movements that tend to educate and organize the liberated energies. Much less can hate or greed or vice be eliminated by denunciation alone. Alas, the spirit of the reformer is not seldom as bitter and selfish as that which it challenges. Small wonder if it aggravates instead of mitigating the temper it seeks to destroy. But let love have her perfect work, let the Christ-mind manifest itself as benign, noble, helpful, and the very material for evil is transmuted into its antidote.

A Passion for Souls.

Rev. Robert J. Burdette, at the Temple Baptist Church yesterday, preached on "A Passion for Souls," taking as his text: "I would to God that not only thou, but also all that hear me this day, were both almost, and altogether such as I am, except these bonds." It was the apostle's reply to King Agrippa's sarcastic: "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian."

"It was a noble, tactful answer," he said. "It explained all the great and complete change in his life. It told of the great overmastering passion for the souls of men that had been born into his own soul.

"A passion for souls! How came all this about? We cannot comprehend this unknowable love of Christ, this fathomless, lofty, spiritual love. We can only make guesses at it from what we know of human love. And how little do you comprehend of that? Here is a boy just in the morning time of life. He is a citizen in years; a soldier in strength. He meets this girl, her face is oval and her eyes are blue. She is a pleasant companion. He likes her. He meets this other girl. And her eyes are brown, and her blue-black hair is a night of glory above her winsome face. He likes her. He meets another girl. Her eyes are hazel, and her brown hair is a willful fringe of tendrils above her white brow, and the dimples punctuate her smile. Oh, a score of blue and black and brown-eyed girls he knows. They have voices that are musical; laughter that is entrancing; hands that are white and thoughts that are pure, and hearts that are loving.

"But one day he meets a girl he doesn't know the color of her eyes, and he can't remember that night whether she had dimples or not, and he isn't sure whether her hair was demure or willful. He barely touched her hand when he said good-night, though he would have given his heart to have caught her in his arms. His soul is in a tumult. He sees in his waking visions the beautiful face he cannot describe. He tries to write a sonnet to the eyes whose entrancing hue baffles his memory. Love is born in his heart, and he is her slave. She marries him and makes a man of him.

"How did you happen to fall in love with your wife, man? You don't know. But you know now. You know, when you met her, that you had never loved the sweethearts with whom you had danced and walked before she rose, the only star in the skies, upon the illumined horizon of your life.

"From our little knowledge of our human love, we rise to a faint comprehension of the spiritual love. We can see its transforming power. The love of Christ makes heroes of cowards. It caught at poor, weak sinking Peter when the waves were boisterous, and he was beginning to sink in the fearful storm that raged around his Master in the judgment hall of the high priest, and lifted him to the mountain peaks of Pentecost—the bravest of the brave.

"The love of Christ girded the souls of that little band of disciples with living flame, and sent them into the capitols and citadels of the heathen world to preach the gospel. It caught Saul out of his armed retinue at the gates of Damascus, and sent him to proclaim the unsearchable riches. It sent Philip hurrying down through the way of the desert to snatch from the blackness of ignorance the soul of the Ethiopian officer that more souls—souls of men whom he never saw and whom he never would see until he met them in the city of whiteness and gold, might be saved. This is the transforming power of the love of Christ.

The Terrific Driver.

"The Terrific Driver" was the subject of Rev. Frank DeWitt Talmage's address at First Presbyterian Church yesterday. His text was, "For he driveth furiously."—II Kings ix, 20. After describing the character of Jehu, the speaker said:

"Sometimes God uses a very bad man to work out his purposes. He sometimes says to his Jehus: 'You, oh selfish and sinful men, are to be the agencies by which I will execute my warnings. You are to carry my chalices, even though your hands are sinful. You are to unsheath my avenging sword, even though you have evil hearts. You are to run my errands, even though you are answering the calls of greed and crime.' Thus all doers of good are not necessarily disciples, or God's children. Though we today find Jehu toppling over the throne of an infamous king, yet Jehu himself was just as heartless, as merciless and as much of a criminal as Ahab or Jezebel, who slew Naboth in order that they might annex his vineyards to the royal domain.

"The sinful life of Jehu as a fulfiller of Elijah's prophecies finds its duplicate in the lives of many sinful men whom God at times has used for certain purposes. Study, for instance, the life of Thomas Paine. Most of the present generation never think of Thomas Paine except as a blasphemer and an enemy of Jesus. When we mention his name, there rises before us his book, 'The Age of Reason,' which has done as much damage as any book ever penned my man. But amid your execrations of this book, do you recall the fact that Paine, the infidel, was also Paine, one of the great leaders and most powerful factors in the struggle for American liberty?

"In the darkest days which preceded the preparation of the Declaration of Independence, his pen was busy. He published a book at that time called "Common Sense." It was a plea for national independence. It was written in simple language, and was read everywhere. Dare any man, facing the historical facts, declare that God did not forge out of the blasphemous pen of a scoffing infidel a golden wand to guide the American people into Independence Hall of old Philadelphia?

"In your life and mine we may be doing good in a way. We may be helping some men. We may be giving employment to the poor. We may be kind to some people. But a good deed here and there does not make us children of God. Jehu was able to avenge the death of Naboth. Let no man think that he is necessarily a child of God, because he has done Him service. Jehu executed vengeance on Ahab, but he was a murderer.

"The higher a man goes in life, the greater temptations he has to bear. Unless we take Christ with us in our temporal prosperities, we shall surely fall spiritually. As far as I can make out, Jehu was a square, true man until he was anointed King of Israel; but no sooner did prosperity come to him than he was swept by temptation off his feet. Oh, man, you who are now doing barrack duty in Ramoth-gilead, beware, if you attempt to go to the royal palaces of Jezreel without Christ. Beware, when you begin to win financial and temporal success. If you do not cling close to Jesus, your spiritual fall will be as complete as was that of Jehu."

Three Biblical Arks.

The subject chosen by Dr. J. S. Thomson for his sermon yesterday at the Independent Church of Christ was "The Three Biblical Arks." Among other things, he said:

"The ark of Noah is symbolical and very suggestive. When a nation becomes rich and fat, it forgets God, sinks into vices, decays, and finally dies. Before the age of Noah, there were on the earth sons of the gods and beautiful daughters of men. The men were giants in power, and they performed sublime exploits, and were famous. Prosperity was general. Then the people became godless, immoral and shamelessly corrupt, and they were not fit to live on the earth. They were swept into destruction. The same thing happened to Lot in Sodom that happened to Noah. The symbols of the ark are most interesting—the raven, the dove, the window, the door, and the flood.

"The ark in which Moses was saved is another biblical ark of great interest. The ark was a contrivance of the child's mother. Providence inspired her with the idea. So a grand character, a noble legislator, and energetic leader and governor was saved to the world. Krishna was saved from Kansa, Romulus was saved in the Tiber, and Christ was saved from Herod.

"The ark of the covenant contained the tables of the law, a pot of manna, and Aaron's budding rod. The Etruscans, the Egyptians, the Romans, and other peoples, had sacred chests. Such an ark might be regarded as the constitution of a nation. The contents of the Hebrew sacred chest have also many suggestions for us. God requires two things from every nation—religion and morality, and these two essentials of national safety and a wholesome civilization, must not be divorced from the functions of the intellect and the imagination. Each one of us needs a character with faith in it, and such a character is the ark in which one can pass over the angry waters of life to the top of the mountain of truth and rest. In Revelations, it is stated that the ark was seen in heaven by the divine seer, and our character will also be seen there."

MUNYON'S SUCCESS

In Curing Old, Cronic Cases of

RHEUMATISM

Patients Given Up As Incurable

Speedily Restored to Health By

MUNYON'S 3 X RHEUMATISM REMEDY

I want every rheumatic to throw away all medicines, all liniments, all plasters and try MUNYON'S 3 X RHEUMATISM CURE. No matter what your doctor may say, no matter what your friends may say, no matter how bigoted or prejudiced you may be against all advertised remedies, go at once to your druggist and get a bottle of the 3 X RHEUMATISM CURE. Price $1.00. (If he will not get it for you, he has none in stock.) There are 100 drops in a bottle and, as one lady says: "Every taste is worth more than a diamond of the same size." A few doses will take away all aches and pains, and a cure generally effected before one bottle is used.

Remember, this remedy contains no salicylic acid, no opium, cocaine, morphine or other harmful drugs. It is put up under the guarantees of the Pure Food and Drug Act, but my guarantee is not either that. Use the remedy and if you are not satisfied bring the empty bottle to me and I will refund your money.

No room for doubting, no room for exception, no excuse whatever why you should not get well of Rheumatism.

If you have any other ailment, remember that we put up a separate remedy for each disease. We have no "cure-alls." Our Cold Cure cures the cold. Our Cough Cure is worth more than all the emulsions, all the cods, all the balsams and cough cures that have ever been made. You can prove this statement by the investment of 25 cents.

My Kidney Cure, I believe, has saved more lives and cured more chronic cases of bladder and kidney ailment than any known remedy. Money back whenever it fails.

My Dyspepsia and Stomach Remedy enables one to eat a good, square meal and digest it.

My Constipation Ointment gives a natural movement in from two to ten minutes, and is rapidly taking the place of all cathartics and weakening nostrums.

My Headache Cure stops all headaches in from 2 to 10 minutes, and is a good heart and stomach tonic.

All persons suffering with Piles I most earnestly ask to try my Pile Ointment. It stops all itching and pain instantly. Money back if it fails to cure and cure quickly.

Munyon's Vitalizer gives vigor and strength to old men and restores lost powers.

BRINGS MORE INTO TAX NET.

National Bank Stock Must Pay Its Portion.

Franchises of Corporations Also on the List.

State Equalization Board Issues Manifesto.

Los Angeles stockholders in national banks and State corporations are up in arms over the ruling of the State Board of Equalization respecting the taxing of stock and franchises. Protests loud and long are pouring in on the County Assessor. They are of no avail. The conditions are the same in every county in the State.

Under the ruling stockholders in every national banking association doing business in and having its principal place of business in California are to be assessed and taxed on the value of their shares of stock therein, the same to be assessed and valued as is other property for taxation.

The ruling insists, too, that all private corporations, not copartnerships, under the State law must pay taxes on a franchise.

This means the addition of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the assessed valuation in every county.

It will strike a blow at the safety deposit box of hundreds of stockholders in national banks.

It will swell many dollars from the coffers of corporations in taxation on their franchises.

OFFICIAL ADVICES.

A special dispatch from Sacramento yesterday brings the information that the State Board of Equalization has sent a letter to every County Assessor in California, advising him how to proceed in the assessment of bank stocks and corporation franchises.

Already the various and numerous corporations of the State are protesting to their respective County Assessors against what they claim to be the unjust ruling of the State board in the matter of assessing franchises.

Merchants of Los Angeles county also are acting concertedly against the franchise assessment, and when the County Board of Supervisors meets as a Board of Equalization, the members will find many knotty problems to solve.

There already is a State license of $20 each on corporations, considered by many to be an imposition. Adding to this the State and county tax, the burden is likely to be so heavy that many corporations will prefer to perfect their charters to expire and then to form copartnerships.

It will be interesting to note what action the stockholders of national banks will take in the proposed to assess their stock.

IMPORTANT QUESTION.

The letter sent form Sacramento to the assessors by the State Board of Equalization is as follows:

"The State Board of Equalization desires to address you upon the subject of the assessment and taxation of the property of California corporations, and more particularly directed to the assessment and taxation of the banking corporations known as national banks.

"On August 17, 1906, the Supreme Court of this State handed down its decision in the appealed case of Ethel W. Crocker, plaintiff and respondent, against Joseph H. Scott, as Tax Collector, defendant and appellant. The question involved therein, viz.: the assessment and taxation of shares of stock in a national bank, is of great importance, in view of the decision of the United States Supreme Court rendered in the early part of 1906, in the case of San Francisco National Bank vs. Dodge, Assessor, 197 U. S., p. 76.

"The case in the California Supreme Court above referred to involved the assessment and taxation of 5096 shares of the capital stock of the Crocker-Woolworth National Bank under the authority of Sections 3608, 3609 and 3610 of the Political Code. It will be remembered that by these sections it is required that the stockholders in every national banking association doing business in this State and having its principal place of business therein, 'shall be assessed and taxed on the value of their shares of stock therein,' the same to be 'valued and assessed as is other property for taxation.'

METHOD OF ASSESSMENT.

"It is further provided that in making such assessment to each stockholder 'there shall be deducted from the value of his shares of stock such sum as is in the same proportion to such value as the total value of its real estate' (the real estate being assessed directly to the banking corporation,) 'and property exempt by law from taxation bears to the whole value of all the shares of capital stock in said national bank.'

"Said sections further provide that in the assessment of said shares, 'each stockholder shall be allowed all deductions permitted by law to the holder of moneyed capital in the form of solvent credits,' and also declare that the assessment and taxation shall not be at a greater rate than is made or assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of this State.

"These sections of our code were enacted in an effort to comply with Section 5219 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, to assess and tax shares of national banking associations to the holders thereof. It is well settled that, under this section, the holders of shares of national banking associations located within a State may be assessed and taxed therefor, in such manner as the Legislature of such State may provide, subject only to two restrictions, viz.: That the taxation shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of the State, and that the shares of any national banking association owned by non-residents of any State shall be taxed in the city or town where the bank is located, and not elsewhere.'

AS TO BANK SHARES.

"It has generally been considered that the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Dodge case determined for all time the question as to the validity or invalidity of the sections of our code relating to the assessment of national bank shares. But our Supreme Court does not so understand the decision of the Federal court in such case, which latter court throughout the opinion in the Dodge case recognized the rule that in the interpretation of the constitution and statutes of a State, the construction placed upon them by the court of last resort of such State is conclusive and binding upon the Supreme Court of the United States and all Federal courts.

"The California Supreme Court in this case (Crocker vs. Scott) upholds the manner provided by said Sections 3603, 3609 and 3610 of the Political Code for the assessment of State corporations, and holds that the method of assessment as therein required is not in violation of the Act of Congress permitting the assessment of shares in national banking associations.

"The California Supreme Court further says: 'It is settled law in this State that a proper method for ascertaining the value of the franchise of a corporation is by deducting from the aggregate market value of its shares the value of its tangible property, and taking the difference as the value of the franchise,' and refers to San José Gas Company vs. January, 57 Cal. 614; Spring Valley Water Works vs. Schottler, 62 Cal. 69, 117; Spring Valley Water Works vs. Barber, 99 Cal. 36, 38; Bank of California vs. San Francisco, 142 Cal. 276, 287; Stockton Gas and Electric Company vs. San Joaquin County, 148 Cal. 313.

FRANCHISE VALUATION.

"Speaking of the assessment of a franchise, our Supreme Court, in the Bank of California case, above noted, said: 'The fact that the assessor made the assessment of the franchise of the corporation from the market value of its shares, and taking a fraction over 25 per cent. of the difference as the value of the franchise, does not show an unjust valuation, nor include such elements as dividend or profit-earning power, or good will. The assessor had the right to take into consideration the value of the shares in determining the value of the franchise.'

"In view of the decision of our Supreme Court in the Crocker vs. Scott case, the State Board of Equalization advises that State corporations, as well as national banks, be assessed in the manner provided by Sections 3608, 3609 and 3610 of the Political Code, as interpreted by our Supreme Court."

CHANGES IN CLERGY.

Bishop Conaty Announces Several Important Appointments for Diocese of Monterey and Los Angeles.

Bishop Conaty has made public announcement of various changes in the clergy of the diocese of Monterey and Los Angeles which will effect numerous parishes. These include the creation of two new parishes, one consisting of Kern City and Delano, to be placed in charge of Rev. Eugene A. Hefferman, and the other composed of Wilmington and Compton, to be in charge of Rev. C. Gregoire.

At Ventura the Church of St. Bonaventura has been placed in charge of Rev. James S. O'Neill as acting rector. St. Francis de Sales' Church at Riverside is to have Rev. Peter A. Quinn as assistant; and Rev. Bernardine Schiaparelli is to be assistant at the Church of Our Lady of Sorrows at Santa Barbara.

Rev. William Palmer is made an assistant priest at St. Vibiana's Cathedral, and Rev. D. Daly is stationed as assistant to Rev. M. McAuliffe at the Church of the Sacred Heart, East Los Angeles. The bishop also announces that henceforth the Church of San Fernando will be in charge of the Missionary Fathers of the Immaculate Heart.

YOUR stenographer can, if she uses the latest model Smith Premier typewriter, give you with no loss of time the three kinds of typewriting which your business requires. By merely touching a lever she produces:

Purple copying ink for letters
Non-fading black ink for business records
Red ink for emphasis and display

With another machine this could only be accomplished by constantly changing ribbons. Although giving three times the service of an ordinary typewriter

AT THE CITY'S

PICO HEIGHTS.

THERE is joy on Pico Heights over the fact that work has actually begun on the paving of Pico street. For three years they have waited for paving, and lately, after the contract was let, it seemed likely to be withheld through a technicality because the Council granted a railway franchise over part of the district embraced in the paving contract. Work began on Wednesday and has progressed steadily ever since, though the force is comparatively a small one.

Pico Heights residents claim that when this paving is laid they will have the finest street in the city, because all street work has progressed in its natural sequence. The telephone companies have all their wires underground. All electric wiring is in conduits, and gas and water mains are permanently in place. The last work to be finished was the laying of the sewer and the laterals connecting with the curbs. When the paving is down it will not have to be disturbed, as is usually the case, and the result will be a perfect surface.

The activity in paving has given an impetus to many other improvements which have been held in abeyance. Mrs. Susana Van Nuys will build a larger block than any at present of the Heights. It will occupy the southeast corner of Pico and Berendo streets with a frontage of 125 feet on each thoroughfare and 50 feet on the ground floor and a public hall the second story. On the opposite corner [illegible] has moved a residence for the purpose of putting up a block to cost $15,000, consisting of stores and apartments.

A block east, on the southwest corner of Pico and New Hampshire, Mrs. [illegible] will begin at once the erection of a two-story structure 42x80. The plans are now in the hands of the architect and it will cost about $6,000.

William Greske, wife and son, who have spent the winter as guests of Mrs. [illegible] Frost, No. 2266 Connecticut street, will leave today for their home in Vernon.

Miss Lola Sturgis entertained Thursday evening with cards at her home, No. 2021 West Pico street.

Miss Bertha Colburn of No. 2032 Pico street, has as her guest Miss Agnes Parrot of Waterloo, Iowa. Miss Parrot will return East this week.

Pico Camp, No. 790, Woodmen of the World, entertained the Vernon Camp on Wednesday with a banquet. It was given as a result of a membership contest which the latter won. A. H. Armstrong proved an excellent toastmaster and toasts were responded to by Neighbors E. Hollands, Dr. Hall of Vernon, and George [illegible], Fred Kallen, Walter Jenkins and Dr. F. R. Percival of the Pico camp. Other camps in the city were represented among the eighty present.

Mrs. [illegible] Isenberg of No. 1440 Vermont street is recovering from his recent illness and will soon be able to leave the hospital. Last Wednesday he was driving a wagon when it was struck from behind by a Pico Heights car. He was thrown over the dashboard and fell clinging to the front of the car. He was kicked by one of his horses, breaking his left leg below the knee.

Miss Edith Bailey was guest of honor at a party given Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. [illegible]. The party was given by her Sunday-school class of the Pico Heights Baptist Church.

Rev. Robert J. Burdette gave his lecture, "Rainbow Chasers," Friday evening in the Central Baptist Church, Alvarado and Seventh streets. There was a large audience.

UNIVERSITY.

The party [illegible] at his home at No. 1237 East [illegible] and was an elaborate affair. [illegible] and cards were followed by refreshments. Nineteen of his friends were present.

Mrs. W. W. Griswold of Manson, Iowa, was guest of honor at a lawn party given Friday at the home of Mrs. W. W. Widney, No. 63[illegible] West Jefferson street. Entertaining with Mrs. Widney was her sister, Mrs. J. W. Gilbert, No. 322 Temple street. Saturday Mrs. Griswold entertained several [illegible] friends with a trip to Pasadena, carriages were [illegible] and drives made to points of interest, after which luncheon was served at the Hotel Wentworth. Mrs. Griswold has spent the winters in Los Angeles for the past ten years. Her mother and sister are now at the Hotel Coronado.

The annual open meeting of the Omega fraternity of the University of Southern California was held Friday evening in the chapel. The following programme was presented: [illegible] was much appreciated by the [illegible] body, a large number of whom were present:

Boat tryout for the intercollegiate contest will be held [illegible] University chapel on Friday [illegible] the 26th inst., the seniors having an elaborate affair.

EAST SIDE.

PICO HEIGHTS.

[illegible] is joy on Pico Heights over the fact that work has actually begun on the paving of Pico street. The Pacific Power they have waited for [illegible] and lately, after the contract [illegible] it seemed likely to be withheld through a technicality because [illegible] granted a railway franchise [illegible] part of the district embraced in the paving contract. Work began on Monday and has progressed steadily [illegible] though the force is comparatively small as yet.

The Heights residents claim that when this paving is laid they will have the finest street in the city, because [illegible] work has progressed is its present appearance. The telephone company have all their wires underground. All electric wiring is in conduit, and gas and water mains are already in place. The last work to be finished was the laying of the [illegible] and the laterals connecting with the curbs. When the paving is laid it will not have to be, disagreeable as it usually is in such cases, and the [illegible] will be a perfect surface.

The activity in paving has given an impetus to many other improvements which have been held in abeyance. Mrs. Frances Van Nuys will [illegible] more than any at present [illegible] Heights. It will occupy the [illegible] corner of Pico and Bernardo [illegible] a frontage of 125 feet on [illegible] and 150 feet on [illegible]. The storerooms will occupy [illegible] floor and a public hall the second floor. On the opposite corner [illegible] has moved a residence for the purpose of putting up a block to [illegible] consisting of stores [illegible].

[illegible] on the southwest corner [illegible] New Hampshire, Mrs. [illegible] will begin at once the erection of a two-story structure 45x80 [illegible] plans are now in the hands [illegible] contract and it will cost about [illegible].

[illegible] the Normal [illegible] to being made [illegible] improvement Asso[illegible] of High[illegible] are lending [illegible] it a fact, if [illegible] possible. The association met last week, and the Normal proposition was the chief one under discussion. Twenty acres on Montecito Heights have been donated for a site, and it offers many attractions in the way of location, which is high and sightly, overlooking the country in all directions; it is near the city proper, and also within convenient access to Pasadena and other foothill cities. The site is practically bounded by car lines. With all these assets, the association hopes to mass strength enough to swing the school for the pedagogues to its suburb.

A delegation from the East Side, consisting of Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Clark, Col. and Mrs. Den Jones, Commander D. J. Young, Mrs. Fred Ford, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. N. B. Ireland, were at Santa Barbara last week in attendance at the encampment of the G.A.R. and Ladies of the G.A.R.

J. E. Pauley of Danville, Ill., is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. C. Showan, of No. 526 East avenue 28. The brother and sister had not met for twenty years until last week.

SOUTH LOS ANGELES.

Residents of the southeast section of the city are wroth over the billboard imposition. They say that the Council has overridden the wishes of the entire people.

They complain that they have little opportunity to make their community attractive when it is given over to the advertising of soap, sarsaparilla and cigars. Merchants along Central avenue say that it is not right to have tall billboards, advertising department stores outside their section, which all but hide their buildings. It is claimed property is injured, because buyers will invest more quickly in a sightly community than in one enveloped in billboards.

Mayor Harper issued a written order on Saturday to Capt. Phelps of the chain gang, to tear out the curbs on Main street, between Jefferson and Thirty-seventh streets, the route of the "pig tail" that has been a matter of contention for many months. The order is taken to mean that the work of widening the street at this point will proceed at once. For two and one-half years the South Side Improvement Association has been working for the widening of Main street. Fourteen thousand dollars have been levied in assessments for damages to abutting property and supposedly for the work of widening, yet, up to this time, the task hardly has been touched. Between the cross streets named the street railroad tracks on Main street are about a foot and a half above street grade. There have been many accidents from this cause. Plans for the improvement provide for an addition of fifteen feet to the west side of the street, and five feet to the east side.

THE SOUTHWEST.

Ties for changing the Los Angeles-Pacific Railway Company's lines to broad-gauge have been distributed along West Sixteenth street and are soon to be laid. This street is to be widened, and a committee to appraise the strip necessary to be condemned has been appointed.

A pleasing dramatic entertainment was given Friday evening by the St. Vincent Dramatic Club in Memorial Hall. "The Pride of Virginia" was the play presented. The title role was taken by Miss Mildred Talcott. Others in the cast were Marshall Winne, Edward McCurdy, Murray Brannen, Marcus Scott, Edward Booth, Will Stoermer, George Barnard, Miss Grace Du Calsse and Miss Hortense Lindenfelt. The play was given under direction of Will Stoermer.

Mrs. Mary McKenzie and her daughter, Miss Jeanette McKenzie of No. 1309 West Forty-fourth street, accompanied by Miss Nita Wilson, daughter of Supervisor P. J. Wilson, and Mrs. O. L. McVey of No. 1125 West Forty-second street, will leave soon for Poynette, Wis., where they will spend the summer.

A wedding of interest in the southwest is that of Miss Mamie Young and William J. Wilson. Miss Young is a popular society girl and Mr. Wilson, a business man, living at No. 4206 Vermont avenue, and brother and partner of P. J. Wilson, the County Supervisor. Rev. J. M. Schaeffle will perform the ceremony, which will take place in about ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Galbraith, recently of No. 1068 West Jefferson street, left Thursday for Winnemucca, Nev. Mr. Galbraith has mining interests near there.

Mrs. Romolo Pico of No. 445 West Fourteenth street was hostess at a birthday surprise party given by a number of young people Monday evening.

Frank L. Orr has sold his pharmacy at Twenty-fourth street and Vermont avenue to Marx and Lemke, who recently conducted a pharmacy at Washington and Vermont avenue.

Rev. E. H. Hadlock, pastor of the First Lutheran Church of San Francisco, preached yesterday morning at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, corner Thirty-ninth street and Vermont avenue. This church conducts a mission at West Jefferson and La Salle streets, and Rev. J. Irwin West conducted services there yesterday. These ministers came to Los Angeles at the close of the sessions of the California Synod in Redlands.

Mrs. Emma Filbert of No. 2515 Romeo street has returned from an extended visit in Kingman, Ariz., where she was the guest of Mrs. Otto Frances Kneuser.

J. B. P. Crosby of No. 1224 West Forty-sixth street returned Saturday morning from a ten-day trip to Elsinore for his health.

H. E. Dillon of No. 4436 Remick street is building three five-room cottages at the northwest corner of Forty-fifth and Remick streets. George Halden of No. 1019 West Twenty-first street has purchased the property at the northeast corner of West Adams and Juliet street.

Mrs. A. M. Row gave a dinner Wednesday at her home, No. 1323 Lovelace avenue, the occasion being her birthday.

BOYLE HEIGHTS.

The oiling and grading of East First and Townsend streets will be done in the near future. These thoroughfares serve as outlets for the country hauling.

Miss Lucille McMillan entertained a number of her friends at dinner Monday evening at her home, No. 2423 Michigan avenue. Those present were Misses Nellie Latham, Grace Hedrick, Roberta Percival, Lucile McMillan and Carolton Cooper, and Lewis Osborne and William Percival.

The Entre Nous Club met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. Finley, No. 206 South Boyle avenue. These officers were elected: Mrs. William T. Dunwell, president; Mrs. H. H. Salisbury, vice-president; Mrs. C. S. Anderson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. Finley, recording secretary, and Mrs. W. J. Welshaus, treasurer.

Miss Pauline Kahn, a former Boyle Heights young lady, left Friday for Europe, where she will spend a year. She will visit in Germany most of the time.

Miss Ola Grant, president of the R. L. E. Club, will entertain Thursday evening at her home, No. 2515 Gleason street, with a parcel shower in honor of Miss Mae Stower, a member of the club, who will become the bride of Leroy Cleveland, on May 2. Another party planned for Miss Stower will be given by the ladies of the R. L. E. Club when they will have as their guests the members of the Young Bachelors' Mandolin Club.

Workmen are making repairs in the lake at Hollenbeck Park. The north end has been drained and a thick layer of sand which was deposited by the winter floods is being removed and used to fill in where the lake is very deep.

UNION SQUARE.

Property owners on Hoover street and Union avenue have started a campaign with the intention of hurrying the paving of these streets. Petitions for these improvements from Washington to Twenty-eighth streets have been signed for nearly a year, and the residents hope that united action at this time will produce results before the next rainy season.

Mrs. Charles O. Goodwin, teacher of the Delta Chi Sunday-school class of the Magnolia Avenue Christian Church, entertained her class with a picnic Wednesday on her ranch at San Gabriel. Forty-five of the young people went out there in hay wagons.

Andrew Johnston and his bride have returned from their honeymoon trip, spent in Colorado, and will live at No. 2009 Magnolia avenue.

THE NORTHWEST.

West Temple street presents a new appearance now that the paving is laid between the car tracks and the change is a matter of general comment. Saturday evening the work was completed as far as Edgeware Road. This inspires may improvements on the part of private citizens and already a number of new buildings are being erected on Temple street.

Property owners on Alesandro street have signed a petition for the paving of this street from D to F street. The petition was filed in the engineer's office Tuesday. The aim is to have all the improvements on this street made at the same time and at as early a date as possible. When this is done the street car people will build from Sunset boulevard along their right of way. This will furnish an excellent route to Edendale.

The Edendale Improvement Association has decided that property in its section should not be included in the assessment levied for improvements on Sunset boulevard. The matter was thoroughly discussed at a meeting last week. Alesandro street is to be a part of a north and south boulevard to Tropico and Glendale. It is not tributary to Sunset boulevard but to Lake Shore avenue, according to Edendale citizens, and it was therefore thought unfair that this street should be included in the assessment district of Sunset boulevard. A resolution to this effect was passed unanimously.

Echo Park Lake, which has been dry for a long time, while repairs and improvements were under way, will soon be refilled as the stone walls surrounding it are now almost complete1.

HIGHLAND PARK.

Postmaster Stewart's resignation takes effect today, but as yet his successor has not been appointed. It is expected, however, that the new postmaster will take up his duties before the end of this week. The postoffice building, which is being constructed next to the Highland Park Bank building, will be ready for occupancy about June 1. G. W. E. Griffith, president of the bank, is the owner of the building, and will lease it to Uncle Sam for five years. The block is of brick, with a concrete front, and will cost about 3000.

An important meeting of the New York Valley Improvement Association will be held in Holiness Church tonight. Officers will be elected.

Work on the new Methodist Church at Avenue 55 and Ash street is progressing rapidly. It is expected that the entire foundation will be laid before the end of this month. The building will probably be ready for occupancy the latter part of September. It will be one of the prettiest structures in Highland Park. It is to be constructed concrete, with four Corinthian columns at the entrance. The estimated cost of the building is $10,000, without furnishings. The frame building in which meetings are now held will be returned to the Methodist Episcopal conference for the use of a mission in another part of the city.

It is expected that the contract will be let this week for grading New York street, in preparation for the new car line. The property owners have been slowly falling into line, and there is no apparent obstacle in the way of beginning the work.

The revival meetings, which were begun last week by Evangelists E. J. Bulgin and P. O. Gates, are creating a stir and the interest increases with each service. The nightly attendance is between 1500 and 2000, and visitors come from all parts of the city. The meetings will be continued throughout the present week, and possibly next week, also.

The Ebell Club is planning to erect a unique clubhouse on its lot on East Avenue 57. A committee of business men has the matter in charge, and an architect has been engaged to submit plans. A cobblestone building of quaint construction will probably be decided upon.

Mrs. Carl G. Packard and two children of East Avenue 56 have been sick recently with tonsilitis.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

UNACCUSTOMED TO HIGHWAYMEN.

HOLD-UP IN PASADENA STIRS UP MUCH CRITICISM.

Bandit Telephones for His Victim to Drive to a Lonely Spot and Gets One Dollar—Cow With a "Wanderlust" Causes Lots of Trouble. May Sutton Goes East.

PASADENA, April 15.—A reign of lawlessness has struck Pasadena with which the police have evidently been wholly unable to cope. There has been a considerable amount of complaint lately concerning the manner in which Chief Pinkham is running the department, and it is not unlikely that there will be a new head before very long. The personnel of the department is, on the whole, very satisfactory, but the aimless way in which the efforts of the men are directed has met with considerable adverse criticism.

The latest victim to run afoul of the outlaw gang is George Syer, a public carriage driver. Saturday evening Syer received a telephone call telling him to come to No. 876 Lincoln avenue to take three women to the train. He responded at once, but failed to locate such a number. It should have been north of Mountain street, in a district wholly unlighted.

As soon as Syer drove into the shadow he was stopped by a highwayman, who stepped out and ordered him to throw up his hands. Syer hastened to comply and was then directed to hand over his valuables. He gave the robber $1 in change, claiming it was all the money that he had in his possession. He managed to save some money that he had in another pocket, however.

The victim says that the man was of medium height, smooth shaven and spoke with a pronounced Irish brogue. He stepped into the back seat of the rig so that Syer had a good opportunity to observe him closely in spite of the darkness. When phoning for the rig the man gave the name as Burke. No such people live in the neighborhood.

All efforts to trace the culprit have proven unavailing, he having made good his escape before the officers arrived upon the scene.

HIS NOCTURNAL COW.

Louis Priscado late Saturday night swore to a complaint charging J. E. Coons of No. 626 South Broadway with battery. The trouble arose over a cow belonging to the former which has, it is alleged, an uncomfortable custom of breaking loose and strolling about the country, doing much damage to gardens and lawns.

According to the story told by the parties concerned the cow went on one of its wandering tours Friday night and drifted into the Coons yard. It walked about the lawn and trampled several deep holes in the grass. Coons had had several experiences with stray cows and had come to the conclusion that, if he were to receive any relief, he must take the law into his own hands. He therefore seized the animal and impounded it in his barn.

The next day Priscado appeared upon the scene looking for his cow. Coons admitted that he had it, but insisted that the damages to the lawn be paid before the animal would be released. Priscado denied that the lawn had been seriously injured and the two men got into a heated argument. The lie was passed and Coons stretched his opponent out with a blow on the head.

The sow question was allowed to rest for the time being while Priscado hurried to the Police Station where he lodged a charge of battery against his assailant. Coons claims that Priscado made a motion as though to draw a gun and for that reason he hit him, thinking that the other was about to take a shot at him.

Priscado recovered his cow, but there was considerable trouble stirred up in the community and threats and counter-threats were bandied about. Finally the matter was straightened out and it is not anticipated that there will be any further trouble over the incident.

CHICKENS ARE ROASTED.

C. W. Smith of Pasadena avenue and State street is lamenting the loss of a number of valuable chickens, burned to death in a fire which broke out in the coops late Saturday night. The plant was pretty thoroughly cleared out and the loss will run up well into the hundreds.

The fire was started by a lamp in one of the incubators. The wick was a bit too long and the flames ran up and set the machine on fire. Soon there was a lively conflagration in progress and before anything could be done the entire establishment was in flames.

The noise made the frightened fowls add to the excitement of the scene and the din could be heard for several blocks. The Dayton street fire engine house responded promptly to the alarm and did good work when it arrived, confining the flames to the chicken-houses. The delay in sending in the call was fatal, however, and was responsible for the loss.

CARELESS "BIKER."

John Sales fell into the dragnet of the law yesterday for riding his bicycle on the sidewalk. He thought that he was safe from observation and was riding along unconcernedly when Patrolman Rice appeared upon the scene and placed him under arrest. He was later released on $2 bail with strict injunctions to appear for trial this morning.

There have been no arrests for riding on the sidewalk of late and in consequence some wheelmen have begun to grow careless. There was a time when Commissioner Medill and his motorcycle succeeded in discouraging the practice, but the comparative scarcity of arrests recently has made the violators of the law somewhat thoughtless. If necessary the crusade will be started anew, however, then riders may realize that the law must not be broken.

CAR'S STRADDLE ACT.

A north-bound car on the Pasadena-Los Angeles line met with a peculiar accident yesterday afternoon, which, for a time, threatened to delay traffic considerably. In passing along California street, the front trucks of the car ran into an open switch and crossed over onto the opposite track. The rear trucks remained on the tracks and thus the car ran for fully fifty feet, straddling the two tracks.

Fortunately the motorman was able to bring the car to a stop before the corner was reached and a little manœuvering sufficed to set it back where it belonged. Had it once gotten onto the curve, however, it must have jumped the tracks and have disabled the service for several hours.

AFTER MORE HONORS.

Miss May Sutton left last night for New York City, where she will take part in the tennis tournament scheduled for the latter part of the month. The Pasadena champion went away, determined to carry everything before her, and she was accompanied by the good wishes of her countless friends and admirers.

Whether or not Miss Sutton will again go to England this year to compete for the world's championship has not been decided, but if satisfactory arrangements can be made it is likely that she will. Since coming home last year the ex-champion has put in much practice and confidently believes, that, given another chance, she will be able to bring the desired laurels back to this country.

At any rate while she is away, Miss Sutton will meet some of the most renowned tennis experts of the country and hopes to add considerably to her reputation. Not only will she meet the best women players of the country, but she is scheduled to play some exhibition games with one or two of the crack men players as well.

MAKES BAD START.

An effort is being made to have the charge against Walso Richards, the curtain-hanger charged with grand larceny, reduced to petty larceny. It is the first time that the young man has been in trouble, and, as he has heretofore borne an exemplary reputation, some influential men of the town have taken the matter up and are endeavoring to help him out.

The lad seems to be extremely penitent, it is said, and there is a feeling that he has suffered full measure for whatever offenses he may have been guilty of. If the charge is reduced, it is not unlikely that he will be allowed to plead guilty and will then be released on probation. Much sympathy is expressed for his mother, who is prostrated over the affair. She is highly respected here and there is a strong desire to shield her from further discomfort in regard to the matter.

WINNERS ONCE MORE.

For the second time the Pasadena baseball team proved victorious yesterday afternoon, defeating the Hamburger team of Los Angeles by a score of 8 to 4. The game was played on the local grounds in the presence of a large number of fans. It was fairly exciting throughout, though the visitors were not in as good form as they might have been. Errors were made on both sides, but as a whole, the playing of the home team was good.

Gray pitched for the Pasadena team, the first time that he has been seen in the box for some time. He played a good game and was ably supported by the other members of the team. Easterly caught behind the bat.

The local boys announce that they have left the hoodoo wagon for good and say that they intend winning from now on until the end of the season. They are putting in plenty of practice and hope to finish near the top of the column.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Frank Hogan, son of Col. and Mrs. W. J. Hogan of Louisville, Ky., left Saturday evening for a short trip through Mexico before returning to his home. Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Linnard of Hotel Maryland entertained with a farewell luncheon on Saturday in honor of Mr. Hogan. Mrs. W. J. Hogan will entertain with a dinner at the Maryland one day this week.

Tomorrow evening at the Shakespeare Clubhouse the members of the male quartette of the First Methodist Church will give a concert. The quartette is composed of Chauncey Chenoweth, first tenor; Homer F. Stone, second tenor; Frank C. Collier, baritone; Willard M. Webster, basso. The quartette will be assisted by Miss Cordelia Green, reader, and Miss Lucia Stone, soprano.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Gunnison of No. 148 West California street have as their guests Albert S. Watson and son, Charles, of Goldfield, Nev. When Mr. Watson and his son leave here they will visit their old home in New York before returning to Goldfield.

Mrs. Robert J. Burdette will deliver an address to the members of the Ladies' Union of the First Presbyterian Church on April 29, at 11 o'clock in the morning. Mrs. Burdette will take as her subject, "Woman in the Home, in the Church, and in Society."

HAY RICKS FOR NOBLES.

"Lucky" Baldwin Prepares a "County Fair" With Trimmings for Entertainment of Shriners.

ARCADIA, April 14.—Arcadia is to be counted in it when it comes to the entertainment of the Shriners on Saturday, May 18. The "Great White City" will be well under way at that time, and in conjunction with the entertainment furnished a typical Spanish barbecue will be served. E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin will do his utmost to show the visiting Shriners a little the best time they have ever had, and every inch of his ranch will be thrown open for their enjoyment.

Contracts have now been placed for the meats, and the entire country will be searched with a fine-toothed comb for hay ricks, which will be provided with hay in plenty, and the visitors will be loaded in these and driven in a great procession over the Santa Anita ranch.

All kinds of games, races of all kinds, balloon ascensions and everything to make merry, will be provided for the day. The Sage of Arcadia proposes to make this the greatest day in the history of the town.

GETS FINE ORCHARD.

Pomona Man Buys Twenty-Acre Orange Ranch on Indian Hill Near Claremont.

CLAREMONT, April 14. — Carlton Seaver has sold his twenty-acre orange grove on Indian Hill Boulevard to Frank Wheeler of Pomona. The consideration is not known, but said to be in the neighborhood of $20,000. The deal was made by J. O. Enell Realty Company.

This grove, which is opposite the residence of Prof. F. H. White, has long been coveted by real estate men and investors, as one of the choicest tracts available for subdivision in Claremont, while its proximity to the college and schools makes it especially desirable for residential purposes. Mr. Wheeler will subdivide the tract and erect a $4000 residence there.

COVINA.

COVINA, April 14.—The death occurred this morning of Erma, the 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Woodworth of Irwindale. The child was only ill five days, being stricken with a malignant type of scarlet fever. She was the constant companion of her father, who for two years has been blind.

LOTS OF MONEY IN THIS CITY.

LONG BEACH LETS CONTRACTS FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

Also Has a Surplus in Treasury and Big Enterprises Will Tend to Clinch Prosperity in Ambitious Town—The Shortage in Salt Makes San Pedro Works Hustle to Keep Up.

LONG BEACH, April 14.—The next four months will be busy ones in Long Beach so far as public improvement is concerned. In that time work to the amount of $200,000 will be constructed to be paid for by property owners. The largest piece of work now in progress is the paving of Ocean avenue from Golden to Alamitos, at a cost of $50,000. With the completion of the Alamitos sewer system, the paving will be continued to the east city limits at Paloma avenue, from whence it will be extended by private contract to connect with the Alamitos Bay speedway, making an asphalt boulevard drive of six miles along the along the ocean front.

The Pacific Electric will replace its track along Ocean avenue with new eighty-pound rails. Other public work includes the Alamitos sewer system, $28,500; Marine Way sewer on the beach, $8000; paving Second street, $14,000; paving Pacific and Cedar avenues, $24,000; paving Locust avenue, West Fourth and West Third streets, $50,000; Atlantic avenue storm sewer, $40,000; and odd jobs aggregating $20,000 more. Contracts for all of this work have been let and most of it is now under way. Besides this there are thousands of yards of curbing and sidewalk to be put in by private contract and Street Superintendent Taylor says that the total cost will not fall short of $350,000 for this year.

Long Beach has more money in its treasury than ever before in the history of the city, and with all outstanding warrants paid, City Treasurer Heartwell reports receipts for the year ending March 31, of $118,619.61, disbursements $46,892.20; leaving a cash balance in the treasury of $71,727.41.

NEW AUTO FACTORY.

Negotiations are about completed for the donation of a site of five acres at Willows junction at the north city limits for the Durocar Auto factory, which has its machinery and equipment ready for business. A site had been secured it was thought, but the deal fell through, and the company was about to accept a proffered location at Monrovia, when business men of the city took hold of the matter and induced President Varney to delay. The factory will employ 500 men and have a capacity of fifty cars a month.

MAKING REAL LAND.

The clamshell dredger has finished throwing up the dikes around the site donated to the Craig Shipbuilding plant and Monday morning the big electric suction dredger will begin the work of filling in between the channel and the bluff. With a capacity of 200,000 cubic yards a month, the dredger will complete the fill in sixty days and about the same time will be required for the land to settle sufficiently to support the buildings, though the Craig people will do much preliminary work before that time.

BLOOMS IN HURRY.

A century plant at the home of J. W. Eldridge, No. 635 American, is in bloom and will blossom the coming week. The remarkable feature of this is that according to the rings about the base of the plant it is only about fifteen years old. Long Beach florists explain this by saying that bloom comes earlier in semi-tropic regions because of the abundance of sunshine.

SALT IS SALTED.

With an output of from two to four carloads of salt a day, the San Pedro Salt Works is way behind in its orders and cannot supply the demand. The destruction of the Salton Works and the ruining of the R. S. V. P. factories, has forced the San Pedro and San Diego works to meet the demand of the entire State for salt. The company has on hand $250,000 worth of salt in various stages, but most of it still unrefined.

W. A. Bennett, living on Anaheim street, claims the champion egg layer. He has a barred rock pullet, whose eggs average five ounces, and this week outdid herself by an egg measuring 7¼ inches in circumference, and weighing 7¼ ounces.

JETTY OR BULKHEAD?

Ocean Park Trustees and Short Line Beach Property Owners Will Confer Today.

OCEAN PARK, April 14.—When the Ocean Park City Trustees meet tomorrow night, it will be for the purpose of having a conference with the Short Line Beach ocean front property owners relative to the proposed improvement for the protection of the shore line. Several months ago it was decided to build a bulkhead in order that the high seas might not find it possible to encroach upon the beach frontage.

But the work has not yet been done, and the impression has gained ground in some quarters that jetty construction would be superior to the bulkhead in accomplishing the same end. The former would be the cheaper. It is to decide as between the two methods that the conference has been called for Monday evening.

SUNDAY BEACH CROWD.

VENICE, April 14.—There was nothing small about the crowd that came to the seashore to spend Sunday, and as usual Venice was the hub about which the thousands radiated. The main spoke was the popular broad "promenade" connecting Windward and Pier avenues, although Speedway, Trolleyway and the several auto ways on the dirt accommodated an endless stream of humanity. There were pleasing musical concerts at the auditorium during afternoon and evening, and the dancing pavilion did not lack for patronage. Wistful eyes were cast in the direction of the big roller skating rink, whose doors will reopen tomorrow for the season. Fishing and surf bathing proved popular pastimes.

SAN DIMAS DOTS.

SAN DIMAS, April 14.—Assistant District Attorney C. C. McComas and Mrs. McComas are entertaining at their ranch home here, their brother-in-law, the Hon. C. P. R. Moore, Governor of the Samoan Islands, and his family.

Jas. A. Johnstone has sold his ten acre lemon grove which joins the Taylor ranch, to L. S. Taylor, price, $14,000. The property is one of the choice lemon groves of his district. It was purchased by Mr. Johnstone a few years ago for $3,500. He has since realized over $10,000 from the sale of lemons from the ranch.

AVALON EAGLES FLYING HIGH.

AERIE CELEBRATES ITS FIRST ANNIVERSARY.

Dedication of Excellently Appointed Hall Prominent Feature of Occasion—Big Delegations from Other Aeries Join in Festivities—Barbecue a Feature.

AVALON, April 14.—One year ago today the Avalon Aerie of the Order of Eagles was organized with a membership of fifty. Today they are celebrating their first anniversary with a membership of 112, having more than doubled their numbers in the year, and that in a little village of less than 150 voters.

The only available room in which to hold their meetings at the time of organization was the old, unused dining-room of the Grand View Hotel. Last evening saw them installed under a ten-year lease, in one of the best appointed halls in the State, the dedication of which with a grand ball was the opening act in the programme of their anniversary exercises.

The ball was well attended, and proved a very happy function, scarcely more than half of those seeking admission being able to enter.

This morning as the twitter of the little birds foretold the break of day, "Charley" Parker, chef and master of ceremonies of the barbecue, applied the match to the fuel already prepared in the great stone-lined pits, which were to receive the two tons of fish and meats, and after four hours of "firing up" the embers were withdrawn and replaced by the foodstuffs, each separate fish and piece of meat being neatly rolled in cheese cloth, the whole covered over with canvas and banked high with earth, to come forth a few hours later so toothsome and savory as to be simply irresistible.

KANGAROO COURT.

In the meantime a "kangaroo court" had been established, and a jail constructed by other members of the order. There was a judge and court officers, and a patrol wagon, and woe betide the unfortunate man who did or did not do anything worthy of arrest, for they were all with one accord haled before the court and fined, Judge Fairchild's brand of justice being of the Harveyized type. As when a patron of a restaurant was dragged from the table and fined $2 for eating onions on Sunday, it being alleged that he was working his breath overtime. Hardly a man escaped arrest on some pretext or other, and a very considerable sum of money, besides much hilarity, was realized through the "kangaroo court."

THOUSAND VISITING EAGLES.

At 12:30 the Cabrillo landed well-nigh a thousand Eagles, comprising large delegations from San Pedro, Long Beach and Los Angeles with smaller delegations from various other points, many of them accompanied by ladies.

The Eagles formed in marching order on the wharf, and to such stirring melodies as "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," they marched down Crescent avenue to the scene of the barbecue, where they found the toothsome viands steaming hot, awaiting their onslaught. And every man Eagle, and woman, too, did their whole duty.

The appetites being appeased, speech-making for the "good of the order" was next on the programme. The State Chaplain made a telling talk which caught his auditors, and Earl Rogers and Mr. Dorsey followed in order. Rogers's subject was "Equality," and the eloquent gentleman was certainly equal to the occasion, as his hearers punctuated his periods with the most enthusiastic applause.

The Hermosa returned at her usual time, 3:15 p. m., but the Cabrillo remains until 8:30, giving the excursionists ample time to take in the sights of the island in a leisurely way.

The Avalon aerie will make the barbecue a feature of their anniversary hereafter, and are extending invitations to their guests of today to come again and watch them grow.

The hall is arranged as follows: Main hall, 37½x60; reception room, 18x24; two large ante rooms, property rooms and buffet.

The officers are: C. B. Parker, Past President; Dr. J. J. Peckham, President; S. G. Short, Vice-President; William Allen, Chaplain; E. L. Havens, Secretary; A. D. Green, Treasurer; O. I. Danielson, Conductor; J. H. Stapleton, Inside Guard; A. Christ, Outside Guard; Charles Fairchilds, C. E. Morris and A. Butemeier, Trustees.

"Campus Virginia," the most modern equipped camp in Southern California, will open about May 10 under the management of J. Albert. Special rates for May and June. Also the best modern apartments on the island.

WILL CHANGE HANDS.

New City Officers Will Take Charge in Santa Monica Today and Salaries Will Be Raised.

SANTA MONICA, April 14.—Tomorrow evening the old City Trustees will hold their final meeting and formally turn the affairs of the city over to the newly-elected Board of Councilmen. The session will be a brief one, as the only duty of the retiring officers is to approve the minutes of the last meeting and see that the oath of office is administered to the new municipal guardians. This will be the first time Santa Monica has had representation by wards on the Council, and it will also mark the passing of the community from a city of the fifth class to that of the self-government subdivision known as the free-holder.

One of the first duties of the new board will be to provide a salary and revenue ordinance. Drafts of each have been made, and are ready for introduction Monday night. The provisions of these ordinances as proposed by the Council carry an annual salary allowances of about $26,000 for municipal officers. This is not to exceed $2000 more than is now paid. So far as can be learned, the Mayor's salary is to be $100 per month, with an allowance of $50 monthly for a secretary, who shall also serve as clerk to the police, health and fire boards.

The other salaries as agreed upon are: City Attorney, $100; Treasurer, Assessor, and Clerk, $125 each, with $150 for deputies for the latter; and Chief of Police, $150. Of course these figures may not stand in the ordinance as finally enacted, but those are said to be the figures that have practically been agreed upon. Members of the old board are understood not to be viewing these figures with alarm, but pronounce them as conservative. It is generally recognized that the new charter will have a tendency to increase the cost of administering the affairs of the growing city.

The license ordinance as drafted is said to introduce some unique and new features, in an endeavor to increase the revenues of the city without burdening the owners of property. It is proposed to exact a per capita tax from each street car, freight or passenger, that travels the tracks within the city. This one item, it is estimated, will annually pour about $1500 into the city hopper. The telephone corporations will be asked to contribute 5 cents monthly for each telephone in use. This tax would amount to approximately $800 per year. The retail liquor license will remain the same, $150 per month for bars and $50 for buffets, and there will be no restriction as to number as at present. A two-thirds petition of the property owners on each side of the street where the grog shop is located will be required before the petition for liquor license will be considered. The wholesale license will be $400 per month, for that which now brings $300.

RUSHING WORK ON RESERVOIR.

[illegible]LEM OF SAN BERNARDINO WATER PROJECT.

[illegible]r Companies May Acquire [illegible]s Along Aqueduct from Little [illegible] Valley—Deputy Sheriff Was [illegible]ly When Thief Robbed Rail[illegible]d Men.

[illegible] BERNARDINO, April 14.—One [illegible]red and fifty men commence work [illegible]y morning on the Little Bear [illegible]y reservoir, being constructed by [illegible]rrowhead Reservoir and Power [illegible]any among the mountains north [illegible]n place. Work on the project [illegible] late in November on account of [illegible]very winter storms setting in, and [illegible] of the months that have followed [illegible] small force has been employed, [illegible]having to remain idle for [illegible]t of time.

[illegible]n a large force went up the [illegible]ain, and accessions to the force [illegible] the ground will be made from [illegible]e to time as the spring advances. [illegible]vention work has so far [illegible]ed that an immense body of [illegible] already been impounded in [illegible]ir, and it is anticipated that [illegible]orable conditions the core [illegible] of the most important parts [illegible]e project, may be completed be[illegible] the dawning of another year.

[illegible] is likelihood that several im[illegible] contracts looking toward the [illegible]tion of power plants between [illegible] and the reservoir may be let [illegible], though the officials are silent [illegible] these plans of the company.

CAPTURES CUTE THIEF.

[illegible]y Sheriff Will Smithson made [illegible]on capture yesterday while [illegible]ng two vagrancy prisoners to the [illegible]y Jail. A passenger on the San-[illegible]Overland with Smithson was N. [illegible]rk, an official of the Grand [illegible] coming west from New York. [illegible]e a momentary absence from his [illegible]n coat was stolen by Antonio [illegible]

[illegible]y Sheriff Smithson had his sus[illegible] aroused when the theft was [illegible]d, and searching Casterena's [illegible]found the coat secreted there. [illegible]ner pleaded guilty to a petty [illegible] charge, and was sentenced by [illegible] Thomas to a term of ninety [illegible] the County Jail.

[illegible]fficer commenced an immediate [illegible]ation, and has evidence show[illegible]t the prisoner has for a long [illegible] systematically robbing Over[illegible]engers, for this purpose mak[illegible]ent trips between this city [illegible]ow. Other charges are like[illegible] lodged against him.

[illegible]ATH OF MINE OWNER.

[illegible] T. Hayes, one of the best-[illegible]wn men of this county, died [illegible]t his home last night, as [illegible]lt of heart trouble, superin[illegible]g a severe attack of pneumonia, [illegible] contracted at Goldfield. For [illegible]e years Hayes has been in [illegible] business. He was one of [illegible]st on the ground when Goldfield [illegible]s discovered and owned valuable [illegible]ims at the time of his death. ADE AIDS RAILROAD.

George Ade, the playwright and humorist, was in Riverside yesterday afternoon. He refused to be lionized, but, what was more to his liking, he played assistant motorman on one of the Magnolia avenue cars, while his friend, Frank A. Miller, the man who has made the Glenwood famous, ran an extra car to relieve the circus crowds and make it possible for the boys and girls from the lower end of the valley to reach the show grounds on time. Perched on the motorman's stool, George Ade told stories to Mr. Miller, and had one of the most novel experiences of his California trip.

He was accompanied to Riverside by John Ade of Kentland, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Davis of Chicago.

DEATH MISSES MISS.

Oakley Moulton, the 13-year-old daughter of Samuel Moulton, had a narrow escape from death under the wheels of a Salt Lake engine yesterday afternoon. She was riding horseback on Mountain View avenue, and started to cross the railroad tracks without seeing the approaching train. With quick presence of mind, she jumped from the horse and escaped injury.

The horse was struck by the engine and instantly killed. It was carried to the next crossing, at Jurupa avenue, before the train was stopped. Mr. Moulton witnessed the accident, and says that the engineer did not whistle at the crossing.

SERVICES ON MOUNTAIN.

The formal opening of Huntington Park and the Rubidoux boulevard will take place some time early in May. Among the distinguished guests present will be H. E. Huntington, who is a large stockholder in the Huntington Park Association; Robert J. Burdette, Bishop Conaty and members of the Landmarks Club of Southern California and El Camino Real Association.

Bishop Conaty will bless the big cross at the top of Rubidoux Mountain. It is also hoped to have as one of the guests John Muir, whose tribute to the mountains is to be engraved on a copper plate and set in the granite bridge at the entrance to the Rubidoux drive.

SUSPICIOUS "CASES."

Leather Ones Said to Be Miniature Saloons With Every Man His Own Bartender.

VENTURA, April 14.—Santa Paula, this country, is facing a new danger. This time it is the suit case fever. This new ailment has broken out and is raging like a prairie fire. A few months ago Santa Paula voted its saloons closed. Since then it has gone through a siege of "blind-piggery" and has triumphed over the "pigs," but it does not know what to do with the suit-case trouble.

Nearly every Santa Paulan has, it is stated, bought himself a suit case of the largest size, and this he carries with him, no matter how short his trip. He carries his suit case away from home empty and report says he brings it back full and heavy with its load of flasks, bottles and "packages."

There is complaint at the depot here of the immense number of suit cases that it is necessary to handle. No matter if a Santa Paulan visits the county seat but for an hour, he carries his suit case and takes it home filled with good throatsome things.

There is talk in Santa Paula of passing another ordinance, to be known as the anti-suit case ordinance.

DEATH OF ROBERT W. DARBY.

Ends Comes Suddenly for Los Angeles Attorney Yesterday—Funeral Tuesday Morning.

Death came suddenly and unexpectedly yesterday morning to Robert William Darby of No. 1347 West Thirtieth street. The deceased had for several years held the position of secretary with the law firm of Bicknell, Gibson and Trask, and with his wife, who is a prominent member of the Wednesday Morning Club, had a large circle of acquaintances.

Close application to his duties had impaired Mr. Darby's health and a few weeks ago he was compelled to take a vacation. He first went to Elsinore, but later, with his wife, went to Long Beach, to the home of Mrs. Darby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Galer. It was there that the end came. Mr. Darby was apparently improving and retired Saturday night in good spirits. But toward morning Sunday he became much worse, and died before medical aid could revive him.

Mr. Darby was 39 years old, and a native of Cincinnati. He was in the courthouse there at the time it was fired on by a mob twenty years ago. He was a member of the Knights of the Maccabees.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at No. 1347 West Thirtieth street, whence the remains will be taken to Rosedale Cemetery for cremation, in accordance with an expressed wish that such disposition be made. Many friends from Los Angeles and Venice went to Long Beach yesterday to extend condolences to the bereaved widow and her parents.

LOVE FLIES IN AGAIN.

Parents and Babe Reunited by Settlement of Divorce Case Out of Court.

A bitterly fought divorce case will be dismissed today in Department Five of the Superior Court, at the request of Attorneys Henry H. Roser and Trask and Odell. After six months of litigation, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Reeder have become reconciled.

Attorney Roser and mutual friends of the estranged husband and wife brought them into conference yesterday afternoon. They then concluded to bury bygones and to begin life over again.

Today the Reeders will take possession of a pretty new cottage in this city, and back to the reunited household will come the attractive, bright-eyed little son, Joseph Roy Reeder, aged one and a half years, now at the Los Angeles Orphans' Home, where he has been for weeks past.

Six months ago Mrs. Reeder began divorce proceedings, charging her husband with cruelty. The couple lived at Santa Monica, where Reeder worked as a carpenter, and where he also had a fishing boat that brought in considerable money.

Mrs. Reeder's father took his daughter and her little son from the Reeder home, and when the husband appeared to attempt to recover possession of his child and to induce his wife to return to him, it is said he was driven off at the point of a shotgun.

When the case went to trial before Judge Conrey, the decision was against the plaintiff. A motion for a new trial was filed, and the case has been pending ever since.

The baby was brought to Los Angeles during this period, and the father of the boy instituted a search for him which resulted in his attorney bringing habeas corpus proceedings. It was finally decided that the boy should be placed in the Orphans' Home, where father and mother were to have equal rights in visiting him.

Reeder bitterly fought the attempt of his wife to secure a divorce, and at various times has professed himself ready to make overtures of peace.

NEW BAPTIST CHURCH.

Scandinavians Dedicate Fine House of Worship on West Eleventh Street.

The new First Swedish Baptist Church at the corner of Eleventh street and Denver avenue was formally dedicated yesterday with elaborate serives. The sermon was preached by Rev. J. Erickson, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist Church of Oakland. Music was furnished by a special choir of sixteen voices.

In the afternoon a special service was held and about $1000 was raised by subscription. The Svea Male Quartette sang and the soloists were Miss Grace Standstedt and Mrs. John Sheldon. Many were present from Swedish churches throughout the city and brief addresses were made by Rev. J. Walberg, pastor of the Swedish Methodist Episcopal Church; Rev. Dr. E. Nelander, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran Church; Rev. Smaland of the Norwegian Methodist Episcopal Church, and Rev. C. A. Gustafson, of the Swedish Congregational Church.

This church, which is a graceful and substantial edifice, was finished about three weeks ago at a cost of $14,000, and the entire property is worth about $25,000. It has a seating capacity of 700. The pastor is Rev. J. Friborg, to whom is due much of the credit for the success of the undertaking. There are 175 members enrolled and the congregation usually numbers about 300.

The California Swedish Baptist conference was in session at this church all of last week, and adjournment taking place last evening.

The services yesterday were conducted in the Swedish language. Next will be held in English, when prominent Baptist churchmen of Los Angeles will take part. Addresses will be made by Dr. S. A. Northrop, Dr. J. Lewis Smith of Long Beach, and short speeches will be made by the following city pastors: Rev. F. G. Cressey, Rev. W. H. Walker, Rev. C. C. Pierce, Rev. L. A. Gould, Rev. A. C. Phelps, Rev. G. A. Cleveland, Rev. R. A. Henk, Rev. Max Leuschner and Rev. A. M. Petty.

MISS ADELAIDE NICHOLS

PERIODS OF PAIN

While no woman is entirely free from periodic suffering, it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. Irregularities and pain are positive evidence that something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to serious derangement of the feminine organism.

Thousands of women, have found relief from all periodic suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from native roots and herbs, as it is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science.

It cures the condition which causes so much discomfort and robs that period of its terrors. Women who are troubled with painful or irregular functions should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health and strength by taking

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Miss Adelaide Nichols of 224 West 22nd Street, New York City, writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"If women who suffer would only rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound their troubles would be quickly alleviated. I feel greatly indebted for the relief and health which has been brought to me by your inestimable remedy."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures Female Complaints such as Falling and Displacements, and Organic Diseases. Headache, General Debility, Indigestion, and invigorates the whole feminine system. For the derangements of the Kidneys of either sex Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised.

Why a Haynes?

I promised yesterday to tell you something about this car that would certainly interest you, and in order to waste no time for those who are familiar in general with modern automobile construction, I shall begin with the features which are exclusively found in the Haynes. I am just as anxious, however, to enlighten the novices on all points of good car construction, and they will find it well worth while to hear me out in each succeeding day's talk.

Today there is only one gear set suitable to multicylinder cars—the "clash" type sliding gear set. Every authority, as well as every practical user, knows how vicious these gears are in changing from one speed to another. The noise is nerve-racking, and chrome nickel steel often gives up the ghost trying to do its duty. You expert drivers can no more shun this action at times that the novice, and I am sure you will welcome anything which relieves it. On a HAYNES it is ABSOLUTELY IMPOSSIBLE for the driver, either carelessly or purposely, to strain his transmission gears, by a too sudden or wrongly timed change from higher to lower gear. With a HAYNES you snap back from high, at say 40 miles an hour, to your low, without even unclutching. The master gear hub on the countershaft houses a ratchet clutch which allows the car to coast until its speed equals the engine speed, when it automatically takes up the load. No guessing, no miscalculation, and no other car on earth has or can have it, for it is covered by basic patents. My expert driver, doesn't that score heavily for the HAYNES, knowing as you do that the HAYNES is up to the minute in all the regular ways? Did you ever try it? One shift tells more than I can in a day.

E. A. HUENE,

THE CITY IN BRIEF

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Falls from Loft.

W. P. Buchanan fell from the loft of a livery stable at No. 285 East Second street last night and sustained a slight concussion of the brain. He had been drinking, and attempted to climb up a ladder. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where he later regained consciousness.

Car Bump, Jail Cell.

James Turner, colored, was struck by an electric car on Rampart street, between Sixth and Second streets, last night, and slightly injured. Turner attempted to cross the tracks in front of the car. At the Receiving Hospital he said he had been drinking. He was booked for intoxication.

In Hands of Friends.

Mrs. Mae Fowler, a recent arrival from the East, who was sent to the Receiving Hospital after acting in an apparently insane manner at a rooming house on South Hill street, was delivered into the hands of friends last night. It is said she has been an inmate of an eastern asylum.

Robbed on Train.

M. M. Adams of Bakersfield was robbed of $190 on a Southern Pacific train as it entered the Arcade Depot yesterday. Adams says that two men came up behind him as he left his seat and jostled him. He felt some one tugging at his pocket, but in the crowd was unable to determine who it was. Later he discovered his loss and reported it to the police.

New Congregational Church.

The Lawndale Congregational Church is the latest addition to Congregationalism in this vicinity. The purpose of this community to organize a church was indorsed by an ecclesiastical council of the denomination held last Tuesday. The council was composed of delegates from First Congregational Church, Redondo, Salem, Hyde Park and Pico Heights.

Auto and Wheel Mix.

Herbert Rice, a messenger boy who rooms at No. 540 South Spring street, was seriously injured yesterday when an automobile smashed into the bicycle he was riding on West Fifth street. The auto was driven by W. B. Bender, a chauffeur, whose stand is at the Alexandria Hotel. Rice suffered a slight concussion of the brain and severe cuts and bruises on the face. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

Car Hits Woman.

An unidentified Japanese woman, supposed to be a servant in the household of W. F. Skeel, No. 2709 West Fifth street, was struck and seriously injured last night by an Inter-Urban University car at Eleventh and Figueroa streets. The woman stepped in front of the moving car and was hurled to the pavement. Examination at the Receiving Hospital disclosed a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries.

Booze in Drug Stores.

H. A. Sheltan of the Sentous Pharmacy, Eleventh and Sentous streets, was arrested yesterday, charged with selling liquor without a license. Sheltan gave $50 bail for his appearance in court. A. P. Neilson, who conducts a drug store at Fourteenth street and Central avenue, was taken into custody later in the day, charged with the same offense. A. D. Van Horne, No. 247 East First street, was the third druggist arrested. Both of the latter gave bonds for their appearance in Police Court.

Aged Pioneer's Hard Luck.

Frank Riley, better known as "Pop" Riley, is pursued by an ill fate that is likely to deprive him of his remaining lower limb, if not of his life. "Pop" Riley is 80 years old, and came to California fifty-five years ago. It is said to have conducted the first hotel in Los Angeles. His health was broken while prospecting, and for some time he has been a helpless invalid at the County Hospital. Recently one of his legs had to be amputated, and now gangrene has set in on the other leg, and a few days will determine whether or not this leg also must be amputated. Because of the man's age and his enfeebled condition, there is little prospect of his withstanding the shock of the second amputation.

PRISONER'S QUEER STORY.

E. F. Romig of No. 2600 George street is held in the City Jail on the charge of carrying a concealed weapon. There are peculiar circumstances surrounding the case. The police were informed that Rowig had asked that his hand be dressed at a dairy near the city limits and Euclid avenue, and a patrolman went for him and took him to Central Station. There it was found that he carried a large revolver, but that the tips of his first two fingers had been wounded by a small caliber bullet. He claims that he was held up and that when he grabbed a highwayman's gun, the latter fired. The police are investigating.

JAPANESE WOMAN ROBBED.

Miss I. Maskata of No. 221 North San Pedro street reported to the police this morning that she had been robbed by a Japanese. The man called on her and took about $25 from her purse, she says.

MUSIC UNION HUNTS TROUBLE.

THEATER MANAGERS SCENT WAR FROM AFAR.

"Sans Gene" Club, Institution of Totem Cheer, Is Allegedly Compulsory for Minor Spirits of Union, Organization Being Driven by a Coterie of Bosses.

The musical union seems to be laying out trouble for itself again.

It is rumored that there is a war cloud heading for it from two directions—from the theatrical managers, and from discontented musicians in the union itself, who object to bossism and compulsion in what should be private affairs.

A general increase in the pay of theater orchestras may be demanded within the next week or two. Fomentation on this matter has been brought about in the usual totemistic manner, by allowing the grievances of one party to disseminate over every man of union affiliations.

One theater here, by increasing the number of its matinées, has increased the work of its orchestra, and the union proposes to ask a corresponding raise in salary—not only for this orchestra—but for every orchestra in town.

It is this matter that has come unofficially to the Managers' Association—whose members are alleged to have considered it.

One of the most influential members of this body said to The Times last evening: "Personally, I shall not tolerate any demands or orders for a minute. At a show-down, I don't believe my orchestra would leave me, but I would let every man go rather than have my house run by a union walking delegate in any sense of the word.

"If I'm disorchestrated by these trouble makers, I'll have an innovation. I'll put in competent vocalists between the acts. I'll change my bill every week and keep the entractes lively and new."

THE "SANS GENE."

The other matter of portent on the union horizon is the "Sans-Gene" Club, an organization at which union-label cheer is dispensed, amid imprecations on the infidels without the totem fold.

One well-known musician—an orchestra director—says that he is being almost forced to join the Sans Gene Club, a company organized and controlled by the bosses of the union, and in which membership—with dues and wine bills—is declared to be practically compulsory for all the minor spirits.

Unknown Rules
Who would play a game under unknown rules?
Who would sign a contract binding them to unannounced regulations?
But this is exactly what the "Trust Gas Syndicate" asks you to do.
Their Artful Blind Contract
Their contract is blind, but it will bind you when you sign, you agree —To take their gas and pay 80 cents for it.
—to be bound by their rules and regulations (unannounced.)
It is a fair assumption that a company that exacts a contract will give you none the best of it.
—Sign no gas contract.
